EARLY DRAFT FACES COUNTY MARRIED MEN

New Rules to Have Little Effect Here Because of Single Man Shortage.

HEAVY CALLS AHEAD

Boards Indicate They'll Have To Call Married Persons In July, August.

Although national draft headquarters has set up new regulations, which provide for the deferment of married men, Richland county boards are going to have to dig into their lists of married men, regardless, in order to fill their quotas in the next few months.

Faced with heavy calls within the next two months, all three boards, officials admitted today, will have no alternative but to call up married men.

The new regulations set up four categories of draft prospects, but provide that as the number of men in each category is exhausted, local boards can then go to the next classification.

The new dependency law, signed yesterday by President Roosevelt, emphasizes the protection of the home as a unit and asks draft boards not to induct family men until those in all other categories have been called.

Briefly, the four classes are, in the order of calling up, (1) unmarried men with no dependents, (2) unmarried men with dependents, such as parents, brothers, etc, (3) married men without children and (4) married men with children.

Boards 1 and 2 expect to fill their heavy July quotas largely from the ranks of single registrants, but by August both boards anticipate they will have to dip into their reserve of married men with working wives and those with dependents other than wives and children.

None of the boards had received instructions from selective service headquarters today as to the procedure they must follow under the new plan, and clerks said they preferred to await clarification of the law before making statements about who will be called this summer.

Men who are capable of doing important war jobs at home will get a chance under the new regulations to find work before they are ordered into the army. Previously, draft boards were asked only to defer men who were holding key defense jobs.

In detail, the four categories set up under the law granting allowances for dependents are:

'Improvements' at Airport Stop as Man, Boys Leave

Mayor W. J. Locke's crew of "one man and two boys" sent out June 8 to carry out a $5,000 program to maintain and improve the city's airport isn't working any longer.

Service-Safety Director Fred B. Wolff said today that the workers were removed from the project "because there was no particular work for them to do."

Director Wolff, who didn't know the man and boys were hired until the workers said they had been employed by the mayor, said that no one had been working at the port for two weeks. A check of city pay vouchers showed that the crew was paid for working as late as June 17.

The director said that the crew had filled in "some of the worst spots but that there was no more

Eye-Witnesses Reveal Jap Planes Caught Civilians By Surprise In Dutch Harbor Raid; Gunners Praised

(EDITOR'S NOTE: What actually happened at Dutch Harbor? The dramatic answer to the question, uppermost in American minds since Japanese planes attacked June 3, is supplied in eye-witness quotations for the first time in the following dispatch.)

* * *

SEATTLE—(AP)—In the first dramatic eye-witness report of what happened at Dutch Harbor, evacuees and seamen told upon arrival of a transport here how the Japanese air attack caught civilians by surprise and how the gallant gunners on their ship and ashore laid a deadly screen of anti-aircraft fire about the raiding planes.

While army and navy men manned the anti-aircraft guns, some of the ship's crew snatched up rifles and blazed away at the dive bombers.

Lifting of the military restrictions disclosed that the commander of the Dutch Harbor naval base issued a commendation for courageous duty under fire by the army transport's crew and the gunners.

How many Jap planes were downed has never been announced officially. Reports brought by the witnesses to the raids failed to clarify the point.

(The official navy announcement of the raid on the Dutch Harbor base reported four bombers and 15 fighter planes were involved in the raid early the morning of June 3, with an unreported number of planes returning six hours later for what apparently was a reconnaissance flight. The navy reported damage was not extensive, although some

BULLETIN

(By Associated Press)

Imperial Tokyo headquarters asserted today that Japanese military and naval forces were widening their seizure of the U. S.-owned Aleutian islands, off the coast of Alaska. Unconfirmed elsewhere, the Japanese claim was the first information that the enemy was extending his occupation of the desolate, fog-shrouded chain of islands which point like a dagger toward the heart of Japan.

Germans Sweep Toward Suez In Lightning Blow

British Forces Fall Back Amid Heavy All-Day Fighting; Nazis Claim New Advance at Sevastopol; Soviets Admit Kharkov Line Dented.

(By Associated Press)

Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's invasion armies have already plunged more than 60 miles into Egypt in a lightning sweep toward the Suez canal, British imperial headquarters acknowledged today, after British troops fell back in heavy all-day fighting yesterday.

A bulletin from Cairo headquarters said powerful Axis armored columns had driven southeast of Sidi Barrani, the farthest point of the Italian invasion in 1940, and implied that the invaders might have penetrated still deeper into the ancient land of the Pharaohs.

The communique said British troops defending the Egyptian frontier had withdrawn from the main border defenses on a 25-mile line extending from Salum, on the Mediterranean coast, to Sidi Omar.

"Our forces engaged the enemy all day yesterday and inflicted heavy losses on them," the British command said.

Simultaneously, the Italian high command announced that Axis forces had captured the key frontier citadels of Fort Capuzzo, Halfaya (Hellfire) Pass and Salum, and then raced 50 miles inside Egypt to capture Sidi Barrani.

It was at bloody Halfaya Pass, a rocky, easily-defending stronghold southeast of Salum, that the British had been expected possibly to make their main stand against Rommel's legions after the disaster at Tobruk.

Sidi Barrani, about 430 miles west of the Suez canal, had been in British hands since Dec. 11, 1940, when Italian troops who occupied the town three months earlier were put to flight by Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell's triumphant counter-offensive.

"The remaining resistance of the British Eighth army has been overcome on the Libyan-Egyptian frontier," the Italian high command said.

"Axis forces continued in pursuit of the enemy, who is retiring to the east."

It was not clear immediately whether the British armies had executed a strategic voluntary withdrawal to stronger defense positions, as London military quarters had intimated might be done, or whether they had been thrown back by violent assault.

In any event, the threat to the green valley of the Nile and the vital Suez canal was now sharply outlined, and it remained to be seen whether Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck's battered forces, disorganized and weary from the Libyan desert campaign, could stem the victory-flushed Axis legions.

Dispatches from Cairo indicated that the British intended to make their main stand somewhere before Matruh, railway 130 miles

Wipe Out Second Czech Village

Nazis Raze Town As Heydrich Vengeance

Male Population Believed Killed, Women Sent to War Camps as at Lidice; Charged With Aiding 'Chutists.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—The Czech community of Lesaty in Bohemia has been razed by the Nazis on the accusation that the villagers hid parachutists involved in the slaying of Reinhard Heydrich, "protector" of Bohemia-Moravia, it was reported today in Budapest broadcast heard by a Czech government listener here.

Presumably this was another reprisal like that already taken at Lidice, where the male population of about 350 was wiped out by firing squads, the women carried away to concentration camps and the children placed in "educational" institutions. Then the town was destroyed.

The wiping out of Lidice, near Kladno, northwest of Prague, had been the principal measure taken by the Germans in Bohemia and Moravia in reprisal for the fatal shooting of Reinhard Heydrich, deputy reich's "protector" for the main segment of dismembered Czecho-Slovakia.

What happened to the Lesaty population was not disclosed by the Budapest broadcast, which quoted an official announcement in Prague newspapers.

The announcement charged the villagers with shielding from police the so-called "parachute agents" involved in the Heydrich plot.

Other phases of the purge of anti-Axis Czechs continued The Budapest radio said that 18 Czechs were sentenced to death at Prague yesterday and 12 at Bruenn. The charges were not stated.

GROW HIGHER

Scrap Rubber Piles Mount, 176,075 Pounds Received.

Mansfield and Richland county scrap rubber piles grew higher today as city and county residents answered the appeal of C. L. Hartenfels, scrap rubber collection chairman, to "keep going up to the last day of the drive—next Tuesday."

Hartenfels reported that a total of 20,827 pounds of rubber was turned in yesterday at filling stations in and near the city, bringing the grand total to 176,075 pounds. This figure does not include the collections made in other parts of the county.

State authorities said that Ohio had collected 6,800,000 pounds of scrap rubber to date while White House officials announced that 100,438 tons have been collected in the national drive in the first six days.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—A 72-year-old Newark draftsman crossed his own name off state pension lists today returned his $21.80 June old age pension check to the state welfare department and announced he was going back to his drawing board for the war's duration.

"I want to do my bit to help win the war," he wrote the state welfare department's aid for the aged division. "The state of Ohio can use my check to buy bullets."

FACING SERIOUS GRAIN PROBLEM

Richland Farmers Without Facilities to Store New Wheat Crop.

With grain bins already overflowing and the new harvest season due to open next week, Richland county farmers are facing their biggest wheat storage problem in years, Mansfield grain dealers and County Agent George B. Ganyard warned today.

There will be no storage facilities at elevators in the county area this summer, forcing farmers to find storage places of their own or see their wheat waste in the fields, the county agent said.

The Ohio Chamber of Commerce today had started a campaign to find adequate storage facilities to save the state's grain crop for a wartime food supply. Members of the organization were urged to investigate the storage problem in their communities and help round up temporary storage facilities in abandoned store rooms, garages and even empty houses.

Grain dealers in Mansfield said their elevators are jammed with old wheat, much of it being held under government seal, and they will accept wheat only for immediate sale and shipment to grain centers.

A big crop of wheat is in pros-

VICHY—(AP)—Advices from the German-occupied zone said today a powerful explosion—the second this week—wrecked the headquarters of Jacques Doriot's collaborationist organization, the National Popular party, at Nantes at 6 a. m. yesterday.

There were no casualties.

It was recalled that the Nantes "collaboration" club was bombed about the same hour last Monday.

The presentation was made at a regular meeting of the board in the municipal building by Paul M. Eliot, Richland county war savings chairman. City council transferred pension funds from the control of the city to the pension board recently to allow the board to purchase the bonds. Left to right in the picture above are Councilman Roy W. Vaughn, Charles C. Beelman, Edward L. Becker, Eliot, Capt. F. R. Stahl, Councilman George C. Kyle, and Fireman R. M. Whitcomb. Mansfield Family to Return From Territory Held by Japs

A Mansfield missionary and his family who have a number of close relatives here, are among the 629 Americans scheduled to return from Japanese-held territory under exchange arrangements made through Swiss authorities.

State department announcements today stated that Mr. and Mrs. Newton Carl Elder, of Mansfield, their 14-year-old daughter, Eloise, and a six-year-old son, John, were among the group of Americans who will return on the Swedish ship Gripsholm.

They will be taken first to Portuguese West Africa, the first step in the exchange, and will probably be repatriated within 60 days.

Relatives of the family in Mansfield are Mrs. Elder's mother, Mrs. Bertha Fernyak; two sisters, Mrs. Herman Brunk and Mrs. A. Rust, jr.; and Mr. Elder's second cousin, Fred Elder, a senior high school teacher.

Elder, a Presbyterian minister in Thailand for the past 15 years, was interned, along with his family following the Jap invasion of Thailand last fall.

Stewart Elder, 15, the eldest son of the missionary, has been in this country for the past four years since the family last visited the United States. He is at-

ALLOWS $1,000

Defense Council Sets Up Fund For Civil Air Patrol.

The Richland County Civilian Defense council and county commissioners today had allocated $1,000 to the Civil Air Patrol in the Mansfield district for the purchase of maps, radio equipment, practice bombs and other equipment needed by the unit in its civilian defense work.

Funds were allocated at the request of J. R. Harrington, commander of the patrol in the 10-county district, who appeared before the defense council and county commissioners late yesterday at the courthouse.

Harrington outlined the work of the Civil Air Patrol which is the air arm of the civilian defense program.

The money will be allocated from the $18,500 fund turned over to Richland county several weeks ago by the state for civilian defense purposes.

Withholds Payment for Truck Bought by City Without Bids

City Auditor Paul L. Kelley said today that he was withholding payment on a bill for a truck purchased by the city administration for the waterworks department. He said the purchase was made "in violation of legislation passed by city council."

Auditor Kelley said that Service-Safety Director Fred B. Wolff had purchased a used truck from the Colby and Earick company for $490 without advertising for competitive bids as specified in legislation permitting the purchase.

City hall records show the truck was purchased a week before city council passed legislation authorizing the purchase.

Kelley said that although the cost of the truck was less than $500, the legislation "definitely stated" that competitive bids must be received. The administration asked council to allow the purchase of a used truck after it became apparent that the purchase of a new one would involve a long process to get a priority preference rating.

Wolff said that the city had the truck in service for the past two weeks. The request to allow the purchase was only made last week, the truck being delivered before authority to purchase it was received.

Auditor Kelley said he was withholding payment until the administration "had the matter straightened out."

U. S. APPOINTS EUROPEAN WAR THEATER CHIEF

Maj. Gen. Eisenhower Goes To London to Command Yanks 'Where Combat Will Be.'

BULLETIN

LONDON—(AP)—Major General Dwight D. Eisenhower, new commander of United States army forces in the European theater of operations, is believed to have assumed the task of working out details for an Allied invasion of the continent.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Major General Dwight D. Eisenhower has arrived in London and taken command of the European theater for American forces, it was announced today by the war department, which defined a theater of operations as "an area where combat is in progress or will be."

Eisenhower, a native Texan and an armored force expert, went to his post in London from an assignment as chief of the operations division of the war department's general staff.

The department spokesman who defined "theater of operations" explained that such a theater usually is divided into the combat or front line zone and the line of communications but added that "with air power so important there is little difference now between front and rear areas."

The brief announcement was made without reference to current speculation on the possibility of a second front in Europe.

Major General James E. Chaney has been in command of American forces in the British Isles, and officials did not disclose his new status. Major General Russell P.

U. S.: Seek to Convince Allies Stopping Hitler's First Task

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill told congressional leaders today that Britain feels confident she can hold Egypt against the mechanized drive of Germany's desert legions.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill today undertake the task of attempting to convince the Pacific allies, especially China, that the first major objective of the United Nations must be to stop Hitler in Europe and Africa this year.

A specially summoned meeting of the Pacific war council is being held to enable the president and the prime minister to explain to the representatives of Canada, China, Australia and The Netherlands the decisions which have been reached concerning the offensive strategy to be employed against the Axis during the next six months.

Mr. Roosevelt also asked a bi-partisan congressional delegation to the White House for a conference on the war situation with the chief executive and Prime Minister Churchill, presumably before the two leaders meet with the war council.

The congressional group is understood to include Vice President Wallace, Speaker Rayburn, Minority Leader McNary, Sen. Conally (D., Tex.) chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, House Majority Leader McCormack, Rep. Bloom (D.,N.Y.) chairman of the house foreign affairs committee, and Rep. CHINA: U. S. Fliers Bomb Jap Ships; Key Airport Threatened

(By United Press)

CHUNGKING—American Volunteer Group fliers, appearing for the first time in Hupeh province, destroyed three small enemy craft and disabled a Japanese gunboat in a surprise bombing raid Tuesday on enemy river concentrations south of Hankow, it was revealed today.

The official Central News Agency reported the Hankow raid following official disclosure that strong Chinese counter-attacks have hurled back the Japanese to the gates of Nancheng and Fuchow (Linchwan) in Kiangsi province.

A military spokesman revealed, however, that a Japanese force of 20,000 was closing in on the key Allied airfield at Lishui in neighboring Chekiang province.

He said a developing Chinese offensive in Kiangsi had halted the western army of a Japanese pincers which had come within 50 miles of dominating the Nanchang-Hangchow railway.

After recapturing Kewiki, key rail city, Chinese forces moved 40 miles southwest and reoccupied Kinki, the spokesman said. The enemy column that was repulsed at Kweiki now has fallen back 12½ miles to Yingtun, which previously fell to the Japanese.

American Volunteer Group headquarters revealed that three Japanese fighter planes were shot down Monday over Yengyang, 100 miles south of Changsha. Three others probably were shot down, the announcement said.

The official central news agency revealed that Chinese bombers

FARM MEETINGS ARRANGED FOR STUDY OF WAR

Series of Community Sessions Under Way in County Under FSA Program.

Farm Security administration borrowers in Richland county are considering the war's effect on farm methods at a series of community meetings now under way, J. Alden Payn, county FSA supervisor said today.

The central-eastern group in the Lucas area will meet tonight at the home of Keith Applegate with Kenneth Cooke as chairman, Payn said.

A meeting of the southern group in the Bellville community is scheduled for Friday night at Lee Fry's home. Fry is chairman of the community organization.

FSA clients in Sandusky and Springfield townships organized recently, electing Charles Wineland as their president and choosing Mrs. Roy Keith secretary. Members of the organization chose the name, "Improved Farm Methods club," and will meet the second Thursday of each month.

Delegates of community associations will meet next Monday night with directors of the recently-incorporated Purchasing and Marketing association at FSA headquarters in the Richland Trust building, according to Payn.

Delegates have been invited to offer suggestions of their club members for improving the methods of the FSA program in the county and to report on farm and home ideas that can be developed on a county-wide basis.

Under the FSA program, farmers may obtain financial help from the government in the operation of their farms. In addition, government advisors offer instruction for the improvement of household and farming methods.

CHAPTER XV

Kay was cudjeling over a budget, her first budget, when the telephone rang. She had a feeling it was for her.

"Yes?" she answered, and that deep-throated voice for which unconsciously she had listened said:

"Gary Fowler. The man with the car. Remember, I told you about it? Four wheels and almost a body. If you're interested, I can give you a demonstration of what the one-horse shay was like."

Kay laughed. "Oh, Gary Fowler. Aren't you the man who eats nut brittle?"

"Lady, you know me like a book. What I want to know is—can I interest you in that four-wheeled car, or in a stroll, or in the movies or in . . . in . . . ye gods, have you any idea what I'm trying to say?"

"A rough idea. Aren't you asking me if you may have the pleasure of my company this evening?"

"How did you guess?"

"I'll never tell."

"Not even the answer to my very awkward question?"

"The answer is 'Yes'."

"You mean 'yes?' Miss Kenyon—"

"Kay to you."

"Kay, in half an hour?"

"In half an hour, Gary."

Kay walked onto the porch. She felt happy. Ronnie's car was sliding to a stop in the driveway.

"History repeats itself," Kay thought, aloud.

* * *

Ronnie limped up the steps.

"Did I hear you talking to yourself?" he asked.

"I'm afraid so," Kay said. "I heard me too."

"It won't be long now," he said lugubriously. "Try to get a cell with nice soft pads in it. I'll put in for the one across the way."

"I thought it was your left ankle, with the bandage around it. Delusions too?"

"Oh these! I have them all the time. They're permanent. But the ankle . . . Red I'm wounded."

"Poor dear," Kay soothed. "Who wounded you, the Pup?"

Ronnie held his head in his hands.

"I did," he moaned. "I did it with my little mashie. Can you picture a guy being such a dub at golf that he knocks himself out with his own mashie?"

"I don't have to imagine such a guy. I seem to be looking at him in the flesh. Is it a nick, or is it a wound" Kay sat next to Ronnie on the top step.

"You mean you care?"

* * *

Kay said impatiently, "Of course I care. Don't be so darn funny. Would you care if I came limping up your front doorstep?"

"Now Red," Ronnie said. "Don't push me around. I'll break down and tell all. It's only a nick, no thanks to me. The way I used that mashie I was out to slice off my foot close to the ankle. Would you care to cheer up a casualty from the links and maybe accompany him to a near-by tavern?"

"Certainly not." Kay softened the blow with a laugh. "Any man who wastes his life on the links can take cheer from himself. Besides, I have a date."

"A date?" Banter was gone from Ronnie's voice.

"Yes, a date." Kay appeared steadier than she felt. "You know, one of those things. Boy asks girl. It's a quaint old custom."

"I get you." Ronnie nursed his bound ankle. "Meaning, simple, you take too much for granted. Me, I'm simple. It wouldn't be the long, lean Adonis who goes about electrocuting people?"

"Electrifying people."

"All right. One watt is as good as another. Something told me that engineer was going to short circuit me."

Kay made a gesture of despair.

"Ronnie," she said, "will you ever stop clowning? Will you ever be serious?"

Ronnie caught the hand that made the gesture, pressed it hard against his lips.

"You know I'm serious," he said. "You know how much I want you. I've had pretty much everything. If I can't have you, all the rest will be nothing. I love you Kay. I'm waiting for you to be serious. I haven't pressed you for an answer. I know how you feel, about independence. I respect that feeling, even if I am a remittance man myself. But . . . I'm a man. I want you, I love you. I can give you what it takes to make most women happy. One day soon, I will press you for an answer. It has to be yes or no, Kay. I'm not the waiting kind."

Kay said, in a hushed voice, "I know."

Ronnie kissed Kay's hand again, and held it lightly while he struggled to his feet.

"I'll be limping along," he said. "And say, how about dinner tomorrow around 7 p. m. Squabs on the half-shell. I'll fix that engineer if I have to pull every switch on the board."

"Right." Kay said. "Squab at seven. Not bad for a candy clerk."

"Darn good, if you ask me. Suppose you had to live on those marshmallows and peppermints you peddle?"

"I couldn't possibly. I'd chuck it all and switch to hamburger stands."

"Smart girl. That reminds me, I have a date too . . . with a hamburger."

* * *

Kay went into the house. She was weary again. The muscles in the back of her legs ached. The soles of her feet burned, lifting trays had made her shoulders sore. Her fingers were stiff wrapping packages. She must freshen herself. She dashed cold water on her face, trickled it on her wrists. She felt better. Her dress. She'd forgotten. There was a green linen dress crisp and right. Her hair was a riot. A damp comb. Whisk it back and let it be windblown. The time she used to spend in front of her mirror, toying with her hair. Now a whisk, and let it blow. Oh well, long time or short, one whisk was as good as another.

She was on the porch again when Gary Fowler drove in. It was a jalopy as Gary said. But not a noisy one. Smooth as satin.

"Good evening, Mr. Fowler," Kay said.

"Mr. Fowler?" Gary asked. "I thought we had progressed beyond the formal. Oh, I get it. It's my best suit. I'm dressed up. I'm disguised as a social being. And I have my Rolls Royce with me. Not much of a body job, but Lady Kay, what I know about engines! Would you say a spin is indicated?"

"I would indeed," Kay laughed. "A nice long cool spin up the River road with the moon turned on full tilt and all the merry little stars winking rougishly."

"Right. One round trip to the moon."

Metal Shortage May Increase Use Of Trench Silos

DAVIS, Calif.—(INS)—Farmers who need extra silo capacity to expand livestock and dairy production for the war effort may have to depend on trench silos and other types that require little or no meta lin construction, J. P. Fairbank, agricultural engineering specialist in the University of California Agricultural Extension Service, said today.

At the present time there are many trench silos in use in California, Fairbank said, and in most cases they have proved satisfactory. Their use is expected to increase this year, he added.

No metal is required for an unlined trench silo, Fairbank pointed out, while figures released by the Bureau of Agricultural Chemistry and Engineering of the United States Department of Agriculture show that lined and reinforced trench silos require 3-7 pounds of steel for each ton of capacity.

HOLD REUNION

SHELBY—G. L. Rogers of Mansfield was elected president of the 1943 reunion of the descendants of Rev. Almanda Rogers when the 1942 get-together was held here this week.

Others named to offices were: vice presidents, Mrs. Ida Crider and Charles Baird, both of Shelby, and Miss Mary Faulkner of Findlay, secretary.

FARMER, FARM DRAFTED

BOISE, Ida.—(U.P.)—Gerald C. Robbins, now stationed at Gowen Field, was drafted into the army, and then the government purchased his 180-acre farm near Joplin, Mo., to convert into Camp Crowder.

Here's a sensible way

TO GET OUT OF DEBT

You may wonder how you can get out of debt now, when you haven't been able to before. The answer lies in getting a cash loan from Personal.

With this money you'll be able to pay off your debts at once. Then you repay Personal in monthly amounts you can afford.

This doesn't put you deeper into debt. It simply adjusts to a cash basis the debts you already have.

Personal makes loans on signature, fuurniture, or auto, to men and women, single or married, employed on either a new job or an old one. Sensible monthly payments:

$10.65 a month repays a $100 loan in 12 months

We don't believe that folks should borrow unless a loan is the best solution to their problem. If it is, and you need $10 to $250 or more, come in or phone.

HOW TO FIND MILLIONS MORE POUNDS OF RUBBER STILL IN HIDING!

★

Only a Few Days Left to Search for This Vital War Material . . .

OUR COUNTRY'S NEED FOR RUBBER is "so grave and so urgent," as a government spokesman expressed it, that we must all do even more. And we can do it!

THERE ARE STILL MILLIONS of pounds of old rubber "in hiding"—in trash heaps, vacant lots, woods, garages, deserted factories and houses, the old gully down by the railroad tracks, and a hundred other places.

Only a few days ago, youngsters and grownups turned up many tons of scrap rubber in almost-forgotten dumps in Medina, Youngstown and Akron. You can help by searching out the valuable rubber to be found in these places. Why not get together with a group of friends and conduct a "Rubber Hunt" in the evening and over the week end?

THERE ARE MANY OTHER WAYS you can help get the rubber in. Be sure to look again at home—you're almost certain to find something that was overlooked previously. Ask your neighbors if they've turned their rubber in yet. Look around where you work and if you find any rubber ask if it can be turned in.

WHAT YOUR RUBBER WILL DO!

AMERICA NEEDS EVERY SINGLE SCRAP of rubber you can find! It will help build tanks, planes, guns, ships, life rafts, gas masks, tires—hundreds of things that are needed to win the war. Turn in all you can! You'll be helping your country and helping yourself.

JUST A FEW DAYS LEFT—BRING IT IN NOW!

HE LIVES TO FIGHT AGAIN —thanks to a rubber raft!

You remember the story—it flashed over the news wires only a few days ago. During the great battle of Midway Island a gallant Navy flyer roared down and launched his torpedo squarely into a large Japanese airplane carrier. His plane was hit and pancaked into the sea. Wounded and helpless, his life was saved by the rubber life raft which floated out of the wreckage of his plane.

Three old tires will supply enough rubber to make one of these rafts.

Another reminder for vacationers—be sure to take along your sugar ration book.

Now is the season when "dusk" doesn't interfere with lawn mowing until close to bedtime.

If it's true that we're still making payments on the comparatively small war of 1812, "posterity" will have to be right husky to settle up for this one.

Registration Reaches Into 'Teen-Age'

REGISTRATION of young men in the 18-19 age groups will get under way Saturday afternoon, from 12 to 6, and will be completed next Tuesday between the hours of 7 a. m. and 9 p. m.

It has been explained that this registration is for all young men who were born on or after January 1, 1922, and on or before June 30, 1924, and who have not heretofore registered.

While it is possible for those who are away from home on these days to register elsewhere, it is urged that all who can possibly do so register at the place designated by their local board, so as to avoid possible future confusion.

Each registrant will receive a certificate which must be kept in his personal possession "at all times."

From the viewpoint of older persons this preliminary step toward reaching into a younger group in preparation for intensified war activities probably has a more sobering effect than any previous registration.

In an effort to guard their children, insofar as possible, from the early hardships which their elders frequently endured, there has been an inclination among many American parents to think of "childhood" as carrying through the 18 to 20 age period, and a few have even extended this to 25—usually to the detriment of the child.

Attitude of young people themselves is found to be quite different, and it may be doubted if there is any other three-year period in which young men are more self reliant, or imbued with greater confidence, than while they are in the 18 to 21 age bracket. A high percentage of soldiers who served in the Civil war were under the age of 21.

Every effort will continue to be made to win the war without applying selective service provisions to these younger registrants—but so little is known of what the future may bring that this check-up of potential manpower seems a wise precaution.

Lack Storage Space for Ohio Wheat

DANGER of Ohio farmers losing one-fourth of the state's estimated 40-million-bushel wheat crop this year is the present dire predicion—through lack of storage facilities.

With the wheat harvest rapidly approaching full swing, it is disclosed that many elevators in the state are crammed to capacity with last year's crop; that emergency storage bins shipped in by the government are too few, and that suggested farm storage of wheat is impractical in many instances because of lack of facilities to turn the grain to prevent spoilage.

Under present conditions it is feared that many farmers will have the disheartening experience of hauling their wheat to elevators, as they have in the past, only to be turned back because of inability of the elevators to provide space for it.

A bulletin from the Ohio Chamber of Commerce asks all district councillors to consult county farm agents immediately, to determine needs for additional storage space in each county, so that co-operation may be given in an effort to save "every grain of Ohio's wheat crop."

"We need guns and planes and tanks to win this war—and men—but without food they are useless. SAVE OHIO'S WHEAT!", the bulletin concludes.

Scrap Rubber Becomes Precious

ONE of the greatest reclamation projects in history is now under way. It might be likened roughly to the reclamation of desert land in the American West, although it is in the realm of chemistry rather than real estate. It is the rubber-reclaiming job in which this nation is engaged. It might also be called the biggest junk job on record.

The process is naturally interesting. As the old, used rubber from tires, boots, belts, and so on, pours into the national catch-basins, it is dumped into a devulcanizer. The cotton is eaten out by caustics. The caustics are then removed and the reclaimed product is heated and shaped into slabs, under pressure, by steamheated mixers and rollers. Fine screens remove the dirt, and the material is then ready, almost as good as ever, to be shaped again into thousands of useful articles.

The wonder of this precious substance is that, although it is a vegetable product, it seems almost as durable and imperishable as if it were a mineral. Its values are now finding full appreciation.

Favorite Book Off the Shelves

PICKWICK" out of print in England! The most popular story by England's most popular novelist, Charles Dickens, is for the time being not to be had in the bookstores. It is like being unable to buy "Uncle Tom's Cabin" in this country, or at one time "Ben Hur," or lately "Gone With the Wind."

There are two explanations. One is the great demand for the book among English prisoners, who, goodness knows, need something amusing and cheering. Mr. Pickwick in the course of his career was in prison, yet did good there and lived to get out. That must be a consoling idea for prisoners today.

Another reason for its scarcity goes deeper—the great shortage of paper of all kinds in England. With hardly one per cent of the available paper allotted to books, many fine works must become unavailable. It is just one more example of the blight that Nazis are inflicting on the finer things of life.

Now it's a shortage of leather that's being talked about—due to requirement for more shoes because of the shortage of rubber—so, "round and round it goes, and where it will stop nobody knows."

Hitler suggests that later his brain be dissected—but hasn't he ever heard of that old pep slogan, "Do it now"?

The department of agriculture says the onion crop must be doubled this year—without explaining why.

Give rubber to help erase the Japs.

THE RACE WITH TIME

Davis May Need More Authority

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

ELMER DAVIS is getting into action as Uncle Sam's wartime publicity agent. He started with a peppery description of Herr Hitler as "the greatest slave master in history." Elmer is a dandy newspaperman as a reporter, and a forcible editorial commentator. If sufficient authority's accorded to him, he can be gambled on to handle his job 100 per cent from the journalistic standpoint, both for utility by our own and our associated countries' press, and maybe he'll have some influence in Axis news columns.

The only question is, "HAS he got the necessary authority?"

In the last war, George Creel had it. George, of necessity, had subordinates, but there wasn't any doubt that he was boss of 'em.

It isn't so certain in Elmer's case.

It's officially announced that he's superior to Lowell Mellett of the Office of Government Reports, to Archibald MacLeish of the Office of Facts and Figures, to Information Co-ordinator Robert E. Sherwood of the Foreign Information service and to Robert W. Horton of the Office of Emergency Management. Nevertheless, they and their functions survive. Will he be hard-boiled enough to make 'em submit to him? I knew Elmer very well personally. I never classed him as very hard-boiled, so I'm slightly skeptical.

Latin America?

If I'm any judge, he ought to have been given jurisdiction over publicity bound Latin Americanly likewise. Maybe I should know, for I handled Yankee publicity in South America under George Creel in 1914-1918 days. George was perfection as a managing editor as it was then in that area. Probably Elmer would be now, too, but he isn't going to supervise that region. It's to be done by Co-ordinator of Inter-American Affairs Nelson A. Rockefeller, who knows no more than a rabbit about publicity, there or elsewhere, or thereabouts. He knows Latin America, sure, but not Latin America's publicity. George Creel didn't know Latin America but he did know publicity—and it's much the same everywhere.

Colonel "Wild Bill" Donovan likewise is on the loose. Bill runs army and navy publicity independently of Elmer. Army and navy news is quite an item to debar a country's publicity agent, meaning Elmer, to chip into at a time like the present.

Elmer isn't a censor, either. He gives out news.

The censor is Byron Price.

Byron can suppress what Elmer thinks ought to be disseminated.

I'm a poor guesser if those two functions are calculated to be harmonious.

In the last war George Creel was a combined publicity agent and censor.

What he wanted to publicize, he publicized. If he thought there was some news that ought to be suppressed, it was his own stuff.

He couldn't very well disagree with HIMSELF.

Watch for Disputes.

Elmer and Byron CAN disagree. They verge on it already. Elmer's pro-news, Byron's a hush-husherer, as you'd expect of a censorship boss. They haven't clashed yet, but it's in sight that they will.

I'm kinda in favor of Elmer, because I believe he's especially in favor of taking the cork out wholly, whereas I suspect Byron of New Deal sympathies, which may influence him in the present situation. It's a kind of a left-over sentiment from pre-war days.

Listen World!

Women Soldiers

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

I HAVE never been for a United States "Women's Army." I think it's just as important to keep the United States going as it is to lick the Germans or the Japs. And how are we going to do that if both Pa and Ma go to the front?

Yes, we have nurseries and foster homes—good ones, too—but at the best, none of them is a substitute for real mother's care. And when it comes to real service, I think a kitchen apron beats a Sam Browne belt any day.

No, I'm not belittling the feminine sex. I belong to it myself and have never had a wish to be otherwise. When it comes to a poker game I think the average woman holds five aces and another tucked in her garter. Nor am I underestimating female courage and energy. Anything but! The average housewife, who tends her home and husband and a couple of youngsters, work circles around most ditch diggers. And when it comes to fighting for a cause which involves here heart, she can lick ten wildcats.

But that doesn't mean she's fit to go to the front, or will be anything but a doggone nuisance when she gets there. For women work on their nerves . . . they think with their emotions . . . they are moved by their moods.

Women are individualists and rarely can they be regimented. They'll do those things magnificently, often, but it isn't done in the army way or in any way which a male army can understand or co-operate with.

There are extremely talented women aviatrices . . . highly skillful women defense workers whose sensitive hands can manage some machinery far better than a man's. There are countless clerical positions which women can fill far better than the average man. But when it comes to being regular soldiers I firmly believe and hope that women will be a flop.

Feminists may write volumes about the equal strength of men and women. It's the bunk. Women have a peculiar strength of their own and a peculiar patience and endurance in the tasks for which they were made. That does not imply an mental inferiority with men. An intelligent woman can think as straight as any man, is perhaps even shrewder.

But the simple truth is her legs won't hold out as long when tramping through the jungle or over Libyan deserts.

Moreover, I will never believe in feminine ability to face the abstract problems of war as long as most of them insist—as they do—on wearing high-heeled shoes and having a weekly hair wave. Nor do I believe they really want to face war. They just want to show off. It isn't patriotism that's gnawing at them, it's exhibitionism. They all want to be generals.

There are two fighting fronts to this war . . . one to defeat the Axis . . . the other to defend the home. They are equaly important, equaly difficult. I'll ever grant that the home defense is infinitely more monotonous and soul wearying. But that's where women belong. Therein lies their peculiar talent and power and, in my humble opinion, the woman who would farm her babies out with grandma and march off to the front is a greater peril to America than any enemy alien.

21 Years Old

—By ANNE CAMPBELL

How swift the shining years have run,
To make our baby twenty-one!

Just yesterday, in rompers, he
Held out his chubby hands to me!

His baby buggy on the wide
Veranda was Grandmother's pride.

His crib stood close by Mother's bed,
The night lamp dimmed above his head.

A few more years, and bat and ball
Waited his bidding in the hall.

His cap lay crumpled in a chair;
His toys were scattered everywhere.

Now in his room the ghosts of each
Small, changing self abide, and reach

Out hands to tell us that our son,
This very day, is twenty-one!

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Libyan Disaster Being Analyzed As Second Front Move Is Urged

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—To get the full significance of Tobruk's fall, it has to be considered not as a separate incident, but in connection with strategy discussions which preceded it and with other contemplated moves on the Allied war front.

As early as last January, William C. Bullitt, ex-ambassador to France and one of Roosevelt's close friends, returned from the Mediterranean with a very pessimistic report about British prospects in North Africa, expressing grave fears that the British would lose the Suez canal.

While Bullitt was in Cairo, Winston Churchill was in Washington on his December-January series of conferences with Roosevelt. During those conferences, Churchill argued vigorously for the strengthening of the North African front where, he contended, the British could take the offensive and drive the Axis completely out of North Africa.

It was then a question, as it is now, of deciding where the limited number of American planes and tanks could be used most effectively. And Churchill's Libyan thesis was opposed both by the Australians and Admiral King, commander of the U. S. fleet. They fully concurred in the importance of holding the Suez canal, but did not believe in taking the offensive in Libya. Precious U. S. materials, they urged, could be used more advantageously at Singapore and the South Pacific.

Churchill, however, won his point, and subsequently the British did begin their drive to oust Rommel from North Africa.

The failure of this drive caused very keen disappointment in Washington and tended to substantiate some of the discouraging factors which Ambassador Bullitt had reported several months before.

* * *

Bullitt's View.

BULLITT had come back from the Near East with a very low opinion of the British army's efficiency. How far he went in his official report is not known. But in personal conversations among Washington's officials he pointed out that the British army was made up of so many different nationalities and religious groups that 26 different commissaries were necessary to feed them.

In other words, the different sects of Mohammedans, Indians, Arabs in the British army, plus the Free French, Poles, Czechs, Greeks, Jugoslavs, South Africans did not form a cohesive, mobile army. It was cumbersome, unwieldy, and lacked morale.

Bullitt and those who accompanied him also were critical of the lack of enterprise and energy on the part of British commanders. These opinions followed some drastic criticism from the Australians who told of cricket and tea as usual, and munitions magazines kept locked by English officers during afternoon siestas, even when vital munitions were needed for defense.

Australian criticism of English officers was so bitter and so prolonged, especially after the withdrawals from Greece and Crete, that some of the officers complained of were transferred to Singapore—a transfer which the Australians had great cause to regret.

Probably some of this criticism was exaggerated and unjustified. It should be added, also, that American observers had the greatest admiration for the courage of British troops.

* * *

U. S. Reaction.

HOWEVER, it remains an indisputable fact that high officials in the U. S. war department have been worried for some time about lack of initiative of the British command in North Africa.

Their theory is that the British lost so many young officers in Flanders in this war and in the last, that there is a hiatus in officer material between the ages of 45 to 60. British officers are gentlemen of the most charming type, and are picked from some of the best families of Britain. But in the U. S. war department there is a tendency to compare their fighting ability with the charming gentlemen in the U. S. state department.

All of the above is not worth repeating merely for affixing blame for the Libyan disaster. But these facts have to be known and faced in connection with the second front which the Russians have demanded and which the United States has publicly pledged it would undertake.

In other words, the all important question, which Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt must take into consideration is how far the American army can depend on British support in starting a difficult and dangerous offensive against Hitler on the continent.

The hope is that with fewer Indian and African troops to depend on, the British will surprise Mr. Hitler with their now well-trained home army.

* * *

Pipeline Background.

AMERICAN automobile owners don't know it, but indirectly they had the British to thank for the final decision to build a new pipeline from the south to the middle-west.

Secretary Ickes had been urging construction of this pipeline for more than a year—always being rebuffed by the War Production Board.

Part of Ickes' argument was that it was foolish to waste American tankers by having them carry oil all the way to England from the Gulf of Mexico. If, on the other hand, tankers could load oil and gasoline at a middle Atlantic port, they could save 1,000 miles of travel and reduce the exposure to submarine attack. Tankers are getting scarce these days, and the shorter the distance they have to steam, the more trips they can make.

Ickes put forth this argument emphatically at the last hearing before the War Production Board, but was rebutted by Lieut.-Gen. Brehon Somervell, head of the army's service of supplies. Somervell pooh-poohed the idea that England was hard up for oil or gasoline, said he had just returned from there, and that Ickes' argument was pure poppycock.

Ickes made no immediate reply, but cabled the British government. The British were boiling mad, and the reply he received clinched the matter. The War Production Board decided Somervell didn't know much about British oil supplies. The pipeline was ordered built.

LIFE'S LIKE THAT

". . . an' while I'm here, I might as well get my week's sugar ration."

A Farmer's Diary

Earthworm Farmer

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

IN A swanky suburb of Columbus we found the "earthworm farmer" whose fame traveled far when she claimed a sugar rationing card for her stock in trade—several tons of wriggling, red earthworms.

She was a small, white haired lady who wore a blue slack suit and white shoes. Very graciously she invited us into her home. The house was modestly built of old brick, ivy covered, and had in the living room ceiling great hand-hewn beams and an open hearth with a log mantel on which stood a beautiful grandfather's clock. The house was obviously new, but numerous ancient pieces of furniture reflected the ingenuity and charm of its owner.

"Your earthworm business is a hobby?" I suggested.

"It was at first. This is the fourth year, and last year it added quite a little to the income tax," she smiled. "Come out into the garden and I'll show you—but first look at this white elm eight inches or more through, and then notice that little three-inch elm on a neighboring lawn. The same man built both houses and planted both trees on the same day. They're eight years old—this one had earthworm treatment."

We stood beneath the towering elm and I remarked that the leaves had been eaten at the tips by canker worms.

"The elm over there was entirely stripped," she said. "It has grown new leaves since the rains. This tree came out earlier in the spring and since canker worms eat only tenderest leaves, it escaped most of the damage . . . notice how dark and mature the leaves look.

"The grass on this bank never withers in a dry spell, although I seldom water it. My water bills are less than my neighbors." The worms bring up moisture from the subsoil and I simply don't need fertilizer. Notice these old apple trees. A tree surgeon told me, when we came, that they wouldn't last long, but we kept them for shade. Now they're looking better and many of the old wounds are healing" . . . She put her finger into a cleft where the bark had newly closed . . . "a bluebird had a nest in here last year."

Down in the lowest portion of the yard, beneath a lattice of rustic poles, was the "earthworm farm" . . . two compost beds, perhaps 12 feet square, in all. "We dug it six feet deep, walled it with brick," she said, "and put sand in the bottom." With a fork she took up a portion of the strawy litter and there were small wriggling twisting worms—red and very lively. "They're a cross between the orchard worm and the worm from barnyard manure," she said. "I have a man to help and we treat our customers' lawns, gardens and shrubbery. He digs small holes about the radius of the limb spread, and I put in doublehandfuls of this impregnated soil. Then we refill the holes. Results are wonderful.

"You'll laugh if I say that my garden vegetables have better flavor than most—or that the reason my five-year-old grandson, whom I've reared from a baby, is a perfect physical specimen is because he has lived upon vegetables from worm treated soil . . . but come back again. Thinking people are the ones I'm interested in."

GERMANS DRIVE 60 MILES OVER EGYPT FRONTIER

Strike Toward Suez as Reds Admit Kharkov Line Dented By Attack.

east of the Egyptian-Libyan frontier.

A Nazi communique said Axis columns were rolling forward "in quick pursuit of the beaten enemy."

While the battle of Egypt opened on an ominous note for Britain, Adolf Hitler's field headquarters asserted that Axis shock troops had knifed deeper into the fortifications of Sevastopol in "bitter forest and house-to-house fighting."

A Reuters (British news agency) dispatch from Stockholm said a strongly escorted convoy from Caucasus ports had landed two regiments of Soviet troops in the southern Crimea, in attempt to relieve the Sevastopol garrison.

The dispatch said the Russian sea-borne forces, landing in the face of violent fire from German coastal batteries, advanced at some points and cut behind the lines of the Nazi siege armies around Sevastopol.

It was the 21st day of furious assault on the great Soviet Black sea naval base in the Crimea.

Soviet dispatches pictured Russian troops, sailors and marines as inflicting a terrible toll on the Germans in a nightmare scene of flaming guns, heaped corpses and cordite fumes mingling with the fragrance of lilacs in bloom.

"Our troops repulsed attacks of the enemy," Red army headquarters said.

"One unit repelled 18 enemy attacks and wiped out 350 Nazis. Our infantry, marines and artillery are waging a self-sacrificing struggle against superior forces."

On the Kharkov front, 400 miles north of Sevastopol, the German high command announced for the first time that Marshal Fedor von Bock's armies had been on the offensive since June 22 "in order to wipe out groups of enemy forces."

The Russians, who have acknowledged all along that the Germans were pressing a big new drive around Kharkov, said Von Bock's forces had dented Red army lines to some extent but only with "great losses in men and materiel."

During the night, RAF bombers pounded the German U-boat base at St. Nazaire, France, while German raiders in "fairly strong force" attacked the English industrial Midlands for the first time in six months.

The British said two towns were attacked with high-explosives and incendiaries. Berlin said the Nazi raiders bombed the industrial district of Birmingham.

A single Nazi plane also flew low over London, provoking a 10-minute burst of anti-aircraft fire, but no bombs were dropped and no alarm sounded. London has been free of heavy raids since the spring of 1941.

Nazis Extend Raids On British Towns

LONDON—(INS)—Nazi raiding planes followed up an early morning attack on the west midlands today by bombing several points in East Anglia.

Five of the Luftwaffe raiders were destroyed.

Two areas of a west midlands town were blasted by high explosives and incendiary bombs.

An official Royal Air Force communique revealed that British bombers during the night blasted the Nazi-held submarine base at St. Nazaire, France.

U. S. Planes Again Attack Bengasi

NEW YORK —(INS)— American Liberator bombers and planes of the Royal Air Force have made another attack on the Axis supply base of Bengasi, CBS reported from Cairo today. The raid was described as one of the heaviest yet.

CAIRO —(AP)— Two large Axis supply ships, escorted by two destroyers, were attacked by the RAF Monday night, east of Palermo, Sicily, the RAF Middle East command announced today, and a direct hit on the stern of one of the supply vessels started a fire.

Court Holds City Not Liable for Ice Fall Injury

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— A pedestrian who is injured in a fall on an ice-coated sidewalk can not recover damages from a principality unless the ice accumulation had been on the sidewalk long enough for the city to be cognizant of it, the state supreme court ruled yesterday.

In reversing Stark county lower court judgments, the high court ruled that H. L. McCave of Canton could not collect damages from the city of Canton for injuries suffered when he slipped and fell on an icy sidewalk on Jan. 14, 1939.

"A municipality is not liable for injuries to pedestrians caused by snow and ice on streets and sidewalks where the accumulation was due to natural causes," the court said. "Where the accumulation is not due to natural causes the city is not liable in the absence of notice of the presence of such accumulation of ice."

CINCINNATI—(INS)—A folding bed that allegedly operated with much more speed than a folding bed is expected to display was responsible today for a suit for $15,000 damages filed by Mrs. Irene Papinau in common pleas court.

Mrs. Papinau sued trustees of the L. B. Harrison estate, owner of an apartment building in which she lived, charging that the bed unfolded so quickly that it knocked her down and pinned her to the floor. She said she suffered head lacerations and a broken wrist.

U. S. Sends Gen. Eisenhower To Command Yanks In That Theater.

Hartle remains in command of American forces in northern Ireland.

In a statement by General Eisenhower on his arrival in England, which the war department released, the new commander said "the formal establishment of a European theater is a logical step in coordinating the efforts of Great Britain and the United States."

"Six months ago the prime minister of Great Britain and the President of the United States heartened the people of the United Nations by moving swiftly to merge the military and economic strength of Britain and the United States for a common effort," Eisenhower said.

"At that Washington conference they set a more effective pattern for unqualified partnership than has ever before been envisaged by allied nations in pursuit of a common purpose. Only recently they have met again to bring combined action into even closer cooperation.

"The presence here in the British Isles of American soldiers and pilots in rapidly increasing numbers is evidence that we are hewing to the line of that pattern."

General Eisenhower, a native of Tyler, Tex., is 51 and has been a key member of the war department general staff for the last four months.

MacArthur, Marshall Backed For Command

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Members of congress today suggested Gen. Douglas MacArthur, and Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff of the army, for the post of supreme United Nations commander when a second front is established in Europe.

With opening of a western front already promised by President Roosevelt, rumors of discussions of choosing a supreme commander have circulated in Washington. The name of Lieut. Gen. McNaughton, a Canadian, has also been mentioned.

"Category 4. Registrants otherwise qualified for military service who have wives and children or children alone, with whom they maintain a bona fide family relationship in their homes who were married prior to Dec. 8, 1941, at a time when induction was not imminent."

The directive is not retroactive but local boards were advised that "in order to give immediate effect to the general intent of congress, registrants should be selected for induction according to the four categories it outlines." Officials said that in many cases the directive probably would have no effect on men now in process of induction who might have been in a deferred category if the action had been taken by congress earlier.

The law provides for assistance to dependents of enlisted men below the grade of line sergant. A soldier's wife will receive $50 a month, $22 of which will come from her husband's pay. The amount for a wife and one child will be $62 with $10 additional for each additional child.

James R. Harrington, airport manager, stated on June 9 that Mayor Locke had promised the crew would be kept at the airport "until the whole program was finished."

The crew had been hired by the mayor although legislation passed by council appropriating $5,000 for the work put full power and authority for the work in the hands of the service director.

The legislation also was definite in stating that specific funds would be used to repair the drainage system, lengthen a runway 1,000 feet, fill in low spots, mark the runways, establish a parking area and seed the runways.

CLEVELAND—(INS)—Some 330,000 persons in a section of Cleveland's thickly-populated east side received praise from OCD officials on their behavior in last night's five minute full blackout, the first complete light-dousing in the city.

Although the main complaint from pedestrians and householders alike was that it was difficult to hear the blackout warning by fire station sirens, officials in charge of the test described results as "very good."

The meeting of the Pacific representatives is taking place at a time when China is showing signs of increasing discontent over the failure of the United Nations to devote greater attention to the Far Eastern situation.

The Netherlands, Canada and even Australia are understood to be disposed to accept the view of the American and British governments that stopping Hitler should be the first objective of the United Nations. China, however, does not share this view.

Expect Churchill To Beat Challenge

LONDON—(INS)—For the first time since he took over the premiership in Britain's darkest days of the war, Prime Minister Winston Churchill received his first non-confidence challenge today, but all observers predicted his victory when the motion is put to vote next week.

Churchill survived a confidence motion by the overwhelming vote of 464 to 1 immediately after the fall of Singapore.

But on that occasion he personally had demanded a show of confidence, offering to stand or fall on the conduct of the Malaya and Singapore campaign.

On this occasion, the challenge came from his political if not necessarily party opponents. It was led by Sir John Wardlaw-Milne, who drummed up 20 signatures in addition to his own to a motion declaring non-confidence in Churchill's central direction of the war, while praising the courage and initiative of British troops in the field.

"The house," the motion sets forth, "while paying tribute to the heroism and endurance of the armed forces of the crown in circumstances of exceptional difficulty, has no confidence in the central direction of the war."

A move will be made for adoption of the motion during the forthcoming debate on the Libyan situation.

FACING SERIOUS GRAIN PROBLEM

pect for the county area. Farmers will begin cutting the grain by the last of next week, the county agent said. Estimated production in the county this year was placed at 644,130 bushels.

Adding to the storage problem this summer is the shortage of freight cars for transporting grain to receiving centers. Before a car will be loaded in Mansfield, the dealer must give assurance that it will be emptied within a limited time after it reaches its destination.

Guy L. Taylor, county AAA chairman, said the federal government has promised to send a number of storage bins into the county, but he has not been informed of the number or when the bins will arrive.

It was reported today that the J. and B. company in Mansfield has received a government order for several hundred wooden bins for temporary storage on farms and in villages. There was a question, however, of whether lumber will be available for the bins.

Wheat has been piling up on farms and in elevators for several years under the government loan plan which permits growers to obtain loans on their crops and hold the wheat off the market.

Ganyard said it will largely be up to farmers to solve their storage problem this time by providing tight, dry rooms for storing wheat where it will be protected from moisture and rodents. A satisfactory wooden bin to hold 700 bushels can be built on the farm for about $40 worth of materials, he added.

He emphasized that wheat must be stored carefully and inspected frequently to avoid infestation by weevils which makes it unfit for food.

A dispatch said a force of Chinese bombers appeared Tuesday over Fuchow in northeast Kiangsi and that "deafening explosions were heard."

The spokesman reported that enemy spearheads already had reached the outskirts of Lishui and the Japanese were launching an all-out assault to capture the city's airfield for fear Allied planes would use it to raid Japan. The drive on Lishui, he said, was launched June 21 from Wuyi, 30 miles north.

"This is the last airfield in Chekiang still in our hands," the spokesman said.

He reported that the Japanese already were using the captured airdrome at Chuhsien, western Chekiang province rail city, which fell after several days of bitter fighting.

Other officials reports said the Japanese had concentrated nearly 400 armored cars and a large number of troops on the plains of inner Mongolia. A large enemy concentration of supplies in this area, the spokesman said, indicated a new offensive was imminent.

M'Arthur Extends Attack Area

United National Headquarters In Australia—(INS)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur has extended the field of United Nations activities to Celebes, more than 900 miles north of Darwin, it was disclosed in today's communique which reported the shooting down of three enemy planes which attempted to interfere with a United Nations reconnaissance flight.

Heretofore the United Nations raids have been concentrated on nearby Timor, New Guinea and New Britain, with occasional forays into the Louisade group.

The goal of the reconnaissance flight over Celebes, the starfish-shaped sprawling island south of the Philippines, was the port of Kendari on the southwest prong of the island. It was formerly a Dutch base.

Other than the spectacular raid on the Philippines several months ago, the flight over Celebes was the longest undertaken from Australian bases.

Draftees With Identical Names Prove Headache

PHILADELPHIA — (INS) — The United States Army is headed for a dose of double trouble—much to the relief of a local draft board which has had nothing but headaches ever since two James Aloysius Brennans registered.

The draft board will, by its own admission, be glad to see the selectees, one 23 and the other 35, off to camp. They registered on the same day. They were called up for their physical examination the same day. Both were accepted and will be inducted the same day. There's even the possibility they may serve in the same outfit.

"But that's the Army's business—and headache," said Harry Praeger, chairman of the draft board.

He explained that the board's filing system hasn't been the same since the two men registered. Half the time when board members thought they were talking about one James A. Brennan, they found later, much to their dismay, that it was the other fellow.

CROWD OF 1,000 SEES 'FANTASY'

Benefit Performance Staged For U. S. O. at Theater Has Big Attendance.

An array of novel dance divertissements were presented in the the first edition of Ethyl Battin's studio ballet, "Toyland Fantasy," staged at the Park theater last night as a benefit for the U. S. O.

Approximately 1,000 saw the production which had its setting in a little girl's room at bedtime. It was then that a prankish sandman decided to have fun by winding up the toys instead of throwing sand in the youngster's eyes.

Roselyne Zychick, a Mansfielder, wrote the story under the name of Rose Lyne, and it was given life by an enthusiastic group of student dancers ranging from pre-school age up to 16 or older.

Among the smaller tots who amused the audience with their spontaneity were Jan Shelton as a Cossack dancer in gold satin and white fur, and Sally Lou Zeger as a lively jack-in-the-box.

Mrs. Battin, a former "Rockette," herself gave a professional touch to the performance by appearing in a graceful ballet-toe number, "Nocturnal Rendezvous," while Miss Jean Mosberg and Tony Tefelio rounded out the types of dancing introduced in the fantasy with a fast and furious conception of the "jitterbug."

Other numbers that held a pictorial appeal included "A Pretty Girl Is Like a Melody," sung by Jane Hodges in complement to a parade of pretty girls including Hope Bromfield, Frances Lynn, Ann Zimmerman, Dorothy Vaughn, Edwina Heidelbaugh and Marilyn Little.

Art Shreffler's orchestra was in the pit but the greater part of the performance was danced to a special recording arrangement.

John Lawrence appeared as the sandman and Gilda Mae White played the role of the little girl.

Virginia Bayer was wardrobe mistress for the performance and Harold McCuen, director of the Children's theater, was in charge of make-up.

DAYTON GIRL WEDS RICHARD WOLFORD

Announcement Is Made of Wedding Solemnized In Dayton Church on June 20: Reception at Van Cleve Hotel.

ANNOUNCEMENT is being made here today of the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Louise Switzer, daugnter of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Switzer of Dayton, and Richard H. Wolford, son of Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Wolford, 824 Park avenue west. The First Lutheran church at Dayton was the scene of the pretty summer wedding which took place at 3:30 p. m. on June 20. Rev. H. I. Pospesel performed the ceremony before a background of palms, ferns, candelabra and beauty baskets of white lilies.

Preceding the exchange of vows, Henry Ditzel of Dayton played several of the couple's fraternity and sorority songs on the organ. As the bridal party approached the altar he played "The Wedding March" from Wagner's "Lohengrin." Soloist was Miss Ada Margret Kommel of Dayton. Her selections were "Ave Maria" and "Because." During the service she sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her floor length gown was of white marquisette made with long sleeves and a drop-shoulder yoke trimmed with lace. The fingertip length veil of illusion tulle was fashioned with a small tiara of orange blossoms. A pearl necklace, gift of the bridegroom, was the bride's only jewelry. Miss Switzer's bouquet was of gardenias and stephanotis.

Miss Margaret Goschke of Warren was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were the Misses Lois Ann Portz of Mansfield and Jean Kinnan of Bellefontaine. Gowns of the attendants were also of white marquisette, fashioned similar to that of the bride. Each wore a pearl necklace, gift of the bride, and carried a small bouquet of pink Kilarney roses, the flower of Alpha Xi Delta sorority of which Miss Switzer and her attendants are members.

Best man for Mr. Wolford was his brother, Dr. Robert W. Wolford. Ushers were Thomas Wolford, another brother, and Albert Switzer, brother of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Switzer chose a chartreuse gown with yellow accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a white jersey gown with coral trim and coral accessories. She had a corsage of coral roses and blue forget-me-nots.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Van Cleve hotel in Dayton. Upon their return from a northern trip, Mr. and Mrs. Wolford will reside at 3210 Reading road, Cincinnati. Both are graduates of Wittenberg college. Mrs. Wolford is a member of Sigma Alpha Iota, national music sorority, in addition to the social sorority mentioned above. Following her graduation she taught in the Phillipsburg high school. Mr. Wolford is a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity and Beta Beta Beta, national biological honorary fraternity. He is enrolled at present in the Cincinnati College of Embalming.

Mansfielders Go To South Bend For Convention

Five members of Delta Theta Tau sorority left this morning for South Bend, Ind., to attend the thirty-seventh national convention which will be held at the Oliver hotel today, Friday and Saturday. Representing Delta Theta chapter are Mrs. Ward Ingraham, president, Miss Mary Cox and Miss Doris Mann. The Misses Margaret and Frances Strickler are attending from Zeta Rho chapter of which the former is president.

Due to the present emergency convention has been curtailed from four to three days. At this convention plans will be made to develop a defense project in which the chapters and the national organization can co-operate. At the mid-year council meeting in February National Council and the Board of Trustees made arrangements to contribute from the national treasury, $500,00 to the Red Cross and to purchase $2,000 worth of defense bonds.

Approximately 500 members are expected to register during the convention. Representatives will be present from the 145 active chapters and the 48 alumnae groups, which are scattered throughout the United States. This organization, with a combined membership totalling over 6,000 is the largest existing non-academic philanthropic and social Greek letter organization.

The principal project, in which all chapters take active part is the maintenance of a mountain school at Brinkley, Ky., for mountain children who would otherwise receive little or no education. Each chapter helps through a national fund to maintain the school, pay teachers' salaries, purchase books and equipment, pay taxes on the building and ground, and clothe the children.

There are sectional projects carefully selected to help the neediest. Last, but not least, are the local philanthropies, which are the main stem of philanthropic work. These include scholarship funds; haspital work; dental clinics; hot lunches; milk and Christmas parties for children; co-operation with the Red Cross; Salvation Army and tuberculosis groups.

A highlight of the convention is the announcement of the award which is presented annually to the chapter with the highest rating in philanthropic expenditures.

Women of Moose Hold Installation Service

Mrs. Bessie Ricks was chairman in charge of chapter night last evening for the Women of the Moose. The senior regent, Miss Ruth Roesch, conducted the business meeting.

Twelve members were initiated and welcomed and a formal initiation was held in honor of the Mooseheart chapter night program. Mrs. Ricks gave a short talk, succeeded by Mrs. Irma Wenninger, national conference leader and graduate regent of Bucyrus, the guest speaker.

Mrs. Wenninger presented Miss Roesch with a gift and told that Bucyrus extended an invitation to the Mansfield chapters for their graduation exercises, June 30. Reports were given by Mrs. Nannie Lowman, recorder.

Installing officers for the service were Mrs. Irene Newton, installing regent; Mrs. Nora Sowash, installing chaplain; Mrs. Violet Zehner, installing pianist; Mrs. Pauline Shively, installing guide. These women installed Mrs. Helen Perry as senior regent; Miss Roesch as graduate regent; Mrs. Nell Piller as junior regent, and Mrs. Lola Raby as chaplain.

Others placed in office were Mrs. Margaret Yingling, treasurer; Mrs. Edith Beilstein, pianist; Mrs. Emma Pierce, sentinel; Mrs. Josephine Russell, argus; Mrs. Marjorie Peppard, guide, and Mrs. Beulah Richards as assistant guide.

Mrs. Edna Creps was given a gift from Mrs. Ricks. Mrs. Evelyn Harmon, social service chairman, and Mrs. Raby, alumnae chairman, presented Miss Roesch with a gift.

Wife Often Leads Mate To Success

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

All women are endowed with a priceless gift known as feminine intuition, and, with this, every sensible woman works her domestic miracles.

The great He-man would raise the roof if he felt he were being obedient; often he's docility itself without realizing it. Convinced her husband has the makings of success, the little woman often pulls the strings that lead to fame and fortune. Such was the case of the Hylans of New York City.

As kids they lived on adjacent farms in Green county, New York. They went to school together; they fell in love. They were married and set up housekeeping in a little flat in Brooklyn. At this time, young Hylan was a locomotive stoker on the Brooklyn Elevated railroad. But Miriam Louise, his wife, felt he was destined for bigger things. "You've got to study law," she insisted.

"And give up my job as stoker?" the future mayor of New York demanded.

"There're such things as night schools and you can work out your problems between times on the train."

Everything in that little flat in Brooklyn was bent toward the goal of making John Hylan a lawyer. In his biography he gave his wife full credit: "She actually prepared my lessons herself," he wrote, "helped write out problems, answers and lessons for me to study on my engine."

And so he graduated in law and began the long, uphill climb that ended in the mayoralty. His wife was his inspiration. She kept alight the torch of his ambition; she helped make his career, as he was the first to admit.

With all this helping, she was the best type of wife. Their home was comfortable, even when they were poor—the sort of place in which a man could relax, plan for achievement, and work; the sort of haven every man dreams of when he marries.

When Mrs. Hylan died, though she was almost 75 years of age, she was still doing helpful things for her family. Her beloved husband had passed away. She was no longer well but instead of resting, as she had been urged to do by family and physician, she continued to carry on. She had gone to get her grand-daughter home from kindergarten, when she was stricken. As her friends say, it was the way she would have wanted to go.

Child's Nap Important In Wartime

By GARRY MYERS, PH.D.

Young children should always have afternoon naps. During the present emergency the afternoon rest period is more important than ever before. It will render the tot less prone to fears and will also give his mother more time.

Any little child can be trained to take a nap regularly each afternoon, though not all parents succeed in getting him to do so. Some parents just seem unable to succeed at it at all. A few of them, indeed, should give it up. The next best thing for these few parents to do is to try to get the youngster quiet for a regular period each afternoon, through reading or quiet amusement.

Success at cultivating the cooperation of the little child depends on many other factors, chiefly the degree of cooperation won from him in scores of other situations up to now; also on his general health, appetite, and sleep at night; on how regularly he is fed and put to bed by night or day; how fatigued or excited he is at nap time, or how excitable or ill-controlled is mother or nurse.

It is highly essential that the tot go for his nap every afternoon in his own home and without exception. It is very difficult for the child to respond for an afternoon nap if away from home or if allowed to omit going to bed for a nap occasionally.

See that your tot is not too weary or excited at nap time. Try to get him off to bed in a happy mood. Lure him there if you can. Failing to do so, just pick him up and carry him to bed; but on the way and while helping him prepare for bed, talk of something so appealing to him that he will turn from resistance to cooperation.

If, however, you know he is likely to get up, stand or play after you leave, say to him: "You must not get up." Then go, leave his door ajar, and linger where you can see him and he cannot see you. The moment he rises to his knees or feet, go to him and spank him. Tuck him in again and proceed as before. Continue with this until he is trained.

Some children might rise four, five or more times, and therefore, be spanked as often; a few might hold out longer. Some might require five, six or more days to be effectively trained.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

WHEN TO OPEN TRUMP

There are two standard situations in which the lead of a trump is pointed to as probably the most logical defensive opening. One of these everybody knows—the cross-ruff kind of bidding during which both the declarer and his partner showed a side suit in addition to the one finally chosen as trumps. The other is that in which the declarer has shown two suits, and the dummy indicated probable shortness in one of them, which he can help set up by ruffing. Sometimes both situations are more or less combined.

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	1 ♠	2 ♦	Dbl
2 NT	Dbl	3 ♣	Pass
Pass	3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥

Close your eyes, put yourself in the position of North and let somebody read that bidding to you, without ever looking at any of the hands. Can't you tell that West has either a singleton or blank in diamonds, plus at least a couple of clubs with an honor and at least ten majorsuit cards? Also that East has great length in diamonds, at least three hearts, probably about three clubs and not over one or two spades? Can't you vizualize West ruffing his spades in dummy, whether he ruffs dummy's diamonds or not?

North was unable to make such a deduction. Hoping for a ruff himself, he led the spade J, and really started the declarer on his plan, having made the lead which would have been called if allowed. That was won by the A, then a spade ruffed by North's heart J, a club returned to the A, a third spade led and ruffed by North's A, another club returned to the K, diamond A called for a discard of the spade 8, diamond 2 ruffed, spade 9 ruffed by the heart 4, the heart 10 sent through, the 8 overtaken by the 9, the Q dropped by the K, heart 6 and spade K cashed, making five-odd.

Now you try to make the contract and overtrick if North leads the heart A and then the J, as the bidding indicates he should. That defense cooks your goose.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

But for a man to accept cooperation from his wife and grasp the helping hand up the ladder of success, he must be endowed with a distinct gift. He's got to respect his wife's judgment and be willing to confirm her faith in his gifts.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm a boy 20 years old. I have a good job, and am engaged to a girl a year younger than I am. Although we're very much in love with each other we have never announced our engagement because her mother doesn't like me. She holds against me the fact that I once quit a good job as it was not the kind of work I wanted to do.

We have to meet each other when her mother doesn't know it. My parents fully approve and would be glad to have this girl as a daughter-in-law.

LONELY.

Your fiancee's mother strikes me as a bit unreasonable. Although you once quit a job which was uncongenial, you have a good job now. If you were unemployed that would be another matter. Doesn't the possible mother-in-law know that everyone gets along better when he enjoys his line of work than when he doesn't? You'll just have to show this lady how well you're doing until you wear down her opposition.

It's too bad you have to see your girl on the sly. I sympathize with you.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

We've been married less than a year, just three weeks before I was inducted into the service. My wife would like to get some sort of employment near my post. How are such things arranged? She is an excellent stenographer-typist, understands filing, and she's a darn good cook, too.

LONESOME.

You are lucky in being stationed not far from a big city where your wife has an excellent chance of securing employment. The Quartermaster's Office employs the greatest number of stenographer-typists. If no more secretarial help is required in the Q.M.C. office, your wife could take a Civil Service examination for Stenographer-Typist.

I struggled up to a sitting position as I heard the knocking, but before I could get the sleep from my eyes sufficiently to rise I heard Donald go to the door, and when it closed again my father's voice sounded insistently.

"Is she asleep?"

"I think so," Ronald replied. "She said she was going to take a nap."

"I'm sorry to disturb her," my father replied, "but I can't help it. I must see her at once. No, lie still. I'll go in and awaken her."

"She's already awake," I told him from the doorway. "I hope you don't mind talking to me in this costume. I didn't have time to change back to street clothes."

"Just go back and lie down," he said. "I'll be in directly."

He turned to Ronald, who was still standing deferentially with the air of being at attention.

No News of Marion.

"You'll excuse me, lad, I know," he said. "I want to talk to your Aunt Madge alone."

Quick alarm flashed into the boy's eyes.

"You have had no news of Marion?" he stammered.

"No, no, nothing that remotely concerns her," my father said. "Just lie down again and try to relax. You can help Marion best by keeping fit, you know."

"Yes, I know," Ronald said submissively, and my father followed me into the bedroom and shut the door.

"I'd like to keep this from you," he said, "but I can't. Jack has gone away again."

I think I must have swayed slightly at his announcement, for he quickly put out his hand and grasped my arm, steadying me.

Madge Shocked.

"Forgive me!" he said. "I should not have told you so quickly. Sit down!"

He propelled me gently toward a chair, but I twisted free of his hand.

"Thank you, Father," I said firmly, "but I am perfectly all right, and—I prefer to take this standing. Do you mean he has disappeared again? I feared it. Indeed, he told me he would not endanger anyone else as he had endangered Professor Diswell."

"He didn't disappear, no," my father answered. "He simply told me, when we had finished our talk, that he could not and would not remain at the hideaway. Frankly, I think he was most afraid of you."

"Of me?" I queried, amazed.

"Yes, of you," he returned. "He knows how close you and Katharine are, and he also knows, my darling, your Quixotism. He is aware that if you thought it your duty to reassure Katharine that Jack was living and well, you would do it regardless of the consequences."

Jack Well Guarded.

I flushed hotly at his words, and at the quizzical look which accompanied them. But I could not deny the accusation, and he went on.

"But I was able to make him take plenty of money with him, also a couple of weapons, handy in an emergency. And I sent him in an armored car almost to the northern border of Connecticut. With the precautions we took I feel sure all trail of him will be lost."

I choked back a dozen questions, finally put only one.

"And Professor Diswell?" I asked.

"He stays at the hideaway," my father replied, "until word comes from Jack. If none comes by the end of two weeks, we will know that Jack is in the hands of the gangsters, and we must then revise our plans accordingly."

I shivered at that, but forced myself to put another query.

"Do you think, perhaps, he is going back to Professor Diswell's house?" I said.

HOROSCOPE

FOR FRIDAY, JUNE 26

Affairs move at high tempo and under excessively high pressure under this day's planetary stimulus. All this strain and stress may not be in pathways of success and achievement unless rigorous restraints and sound principles and judgment be brought to bear upon suddenly arising and profound problems. Erratic and modbid reactions to tenacious and adverse situations should be vanquished for clear thinking and wise techniques, especially where public, or community, affairs enter.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year in which all matters may reach high goals of activity, with successful issues depending upon the moderation, good judgment and sound tactics brought to bear upon suddenly presented circumstances, which might make for delays, obstacles and frustrations. With discreet and vigilant handling of affairs especially with the public, when traveling or in handling papers of importance some worthwhile benefits may be realized. Guard against loss.

A child born on this day should have much practical constructive ability and may reach high stations in public or community affairs providing it govern itself by restraint.

OFFICER CANDIDATES AT WAAC SCHOOL TO HAVE CARS, 'SMOKES'

(By International News Service)

DES MOINES, Ia.—Officers candidates at the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps training school at Fort Des Moines may have their own cars at the post and in true army style will be allowed their "smokes."

Arrangements are being made to handle the car situation, it was revealed today. While the army doesn't advocate the idea of WAAC's will have the same privthey won't be banned, one officer said.

And so far as smoking is concerned, Col. Don. C. Faith, genial commandant at the fort, has some pretty definite ideas about that.

"Certainly the WAAC's will be allowed to smoke," he declared. "Personally, I'd hate to give up smoking my pipe, so I see no reason for the women who smoke to give it up."

"It's the custom for civilized women, if they wish, to smoke. WAAC's wil lhave the same privilege," the pipe-loving colonel observed.

He made it clear that cigarets will be smoked only out of class and out of formations.

Noted as a student of psychology, Col. Faith refused to be drawn out on his ideas of the "ideal WAAC." He would be putting himself far out on a limb, he said, if he advocated blondes rather than brunettes or married women rather than single ones.

"But you can quote me on these qualifications for the typical WAAC," he suggested. "They must have leadership, an exceptional physique, teaching ability, enthusiasm and a flexible mind."

Recreational facilities on the post grounds include tenns courts, a swimming pool, bowling alley and a golf course—all of which will be available to the WAAC's.

It was pointed out by on officer, however, that the first of the women soldiers probably will get enough exercise without the sports angle.

"Mass drills, calisthenetics and mancuvers will give them plenty of outdoor exercise," he predicted. But the facilities are there for them to use if they wish.

Service clubs will be built for the WAAC's and there will be community singing and an all-woman WAAC band, eventually.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are tasking you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there's something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

YES, SIR, IT'LL BE 'NO, MAM!'

'Buck' Privates in WAAC Need Own Form of Address.

DES MOINES, Ia.—(AP)—It'll probably be "Yes, Mam," "No, Mam," and "Right Away, Mam" in the women's army.

Obviously, the "sir" which every buck private and junior officer learns to use in addressing a superior is hardly suitable for the women's army auxiliary corps. Officials at the WAAC officers training school here said today "Mam" probably will be the substitute.

Until the first WAAC officers are commissioned, they will be addresesd as "Miss So-and-so and "Mrs. So-and-so," as the case may be.

TAX RECEIPTS SHOW INCREASE

But Sales Levy Collections For Week Still $1,600 Behind Year Ago.

Richland county sales tax collections made a better showing during the second week of June, but receipts were still $1,600 below the corresponding week last year, the state treasurer's report showed today.

Collections on retail sales in the county for the week ending June 13 amounted to $11,076 as compared to $12,681 for the corresponding period last year.

Receipts in the county so far this year amount to $242,358, or $73,794 below the first five and a half months of 1941.

Only two of Ohio's 88 counties, Allen and Marion, have collected more sales tax money this year than during a corresponding period last year. The state-wide drop in revenue now amounts to nearly $3,000,000.

BASIC ENGLISH TEACHING URGED AS AID TO WAR

Scholar Warns Jap Use Own Simplified Language; Ours Has Only 850 Words.

(By Wide World)

BURBANK, Calif.—Now, says Ivor Armstrong Richards, is the time to teach "basic English" throughout the world.

He warns that the Japanese are rushing to introduce their own basic language in China.

Richards, former fellow of Cambridge university in England, says that if many Chinese, Burmese or Indians now understood basic English, they could transmit invaluable information to the Allies.

"Basic English" is a skeleton of 859 simple words worked out at Cambridge by the English scholar, C. K. Ogden. Students say it would enable people of all races to converse on a limited scale. Richards says it would promote international understanding and good will.

Teachers were making excellent progress in China, through Rockefeller foundation grants, and in some European countries before the war, he reports, but the war closed all basic English schools in Europe; bombings three times damaged the school at Kunming, China, after it was moved from Peiping.

The Japanese boast they have reduced their language to 600 symbols for introduction to the Chinese and other orientals.

Richards declares they got the idea from basic English after it was introduced into Japan in 1934.

"The Japanese, being very imitative, immediately began basic Japanese—no doubt with conquest of the Orient in view," he says. "But Japanese is the last language to lend itself to basic. The Japanese just borrowed 600 Chinese characters, gave them a Japanese pronunciation, and called it basic Japanese."

Richards came to the United States about three years ago on a Rockefeller grant to work at the Harvard commission on language studies. He is in Burbank collaborating with Walt Disney studios in reducing basic to 300 or 400 words for a series of six short films. The pictures are designed chiefly to teach aliens enough English to permit them to get by.

The films are so elementary the average person should learn basic by seeing them six times; "if a person can't learn in 10 lessons, he's a hospital case," Richards asserts.

If a person wants to learn more English, he can teach himself by studying a basic dictionary of thousands of words and by reading any of the 130 books published in basic.

Richards recently published his basic English version of "The Republic of Plato," and in another book, "How to Read a Page," offered a course in efficient reading.

Richards and other basic advocates do not want to replace native tongues with their simplified English; their ambition is to teach basic as the great secondary language of the world, supplanting French.

He considers the possibilities of basic unlimited. The Rockefeller foundation has two schools in South America and proposes to establish more. He wants Spanish, Portuguese, French and Chinese reduced to basic and taught in English speaking nations. The biggest handicap is that of these languages, only Chinese can be reduced to as few as 1000 words. Richards said Spanish and French require a minimum of 2000—"even then the grammar is not good."

China was basic's greatest hope before the war and, therefore, it's greatest disappointment. But Rockefeller teachers are carrying on.

"We were making progress in China. But the war messed up all of that. English teaching in China is almost . . . out . . . the word I like there is nugatory.

"The first cultural need of the Allied nations is English taught in China. We must start now if we make a really good thing of it.

7 Brothers Off Lexington Want To Go to Tokyo

(By Associated Press)

PORTLAND, Ore.—The brothers Patten seven of them and all survivors of the aircraft carrier Lexington sinking, hope for duty on another carrier. The brothers, all here on furloughs, are visiting their father, who is a member of the Navy recruiting staff in Portland.

They are Myrne, Marvin, Clarence, jr., Ray, Allen, Gilbert and Bruce.

Although they felt the fury of the Japs in the Coral sea fight, particularly when the Lexington was destroyed, the seven Navy brothers who still consider themselves "transplanted Iowa farmers" although their home address now is Ridgefield, Wash., into Tokyo," to quote them.

Some of the Pattens got off the Lexington over the stern, others over the side, when the big ship was abandoned. They were separated and not reunited for about a month, when they reached the United States. During the interim they did not know one another's fate.

The area of Vatican City is only 108 acres.

NAVY ENLISTING SHOWS SPURT AT CITY'S STATION

Coral Sea and Midway Battle Successes Believed to Have Brought on Increase.

Enlistments in the Navy by youths from the Mansfield area have stepped up considerably this week, W. G. Cox, officer in charge of the Navy Recruiting Station in the postoffice, reported today.

There was no official explanation for the spurt in enlistments, but it was believed it may have been due to the stimulation of recent Navy announcements concerning successes in the Coral Sea and at Midway.

Twelve men who enlisted through the Mansfield station and the sub-stations it sets up regularly in other cities of the area were sworn into the Navy at Cleveland yesterday and left to start training at the Great Lakes Naval Training school. They were:

John D. Williams, 510 Lida street, Mansfield; Harmon Hoffman, Mansfield, R. D 1; David D. Spangler, Shelby; Edwin W. Swartz, Warren J Wood, Anthony T Perito, Louis F. Ermi, Glenn S. McCune and Raymond F Light, all of Crestline, Robert W Greenich, Bucyrus; John G. Brubaker, Savannah and Charles D. Benedict, Mt. Vernon.

Cox said the Navy is working toward a goal of 500,000 new men to be enlisted immediately for active duty. Many men previously rejected because of defective vision and insufficient teeth are now eligible under relaxed regulations, he pointed out.

In order to accommodate men living in other counties of the area served by the Mansfield station, a Navy recruiting officer from the station here accepts enlistments at postoffices in other cities on the following schedule each week:

Ashland, Monday; Bucyrus, Tuesday; Mt. Vernon, Wednesday and Thursday; Mt. Gilead, Friday. Office hours are from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. The Mansfield office is open daily from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m., and on Sundays from 8 a. m. to 1 p. m.

Six Billion Dollar Tax Measure O. K.'d

THE WAR TODAY

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
(Wide World War Analyst)

The weight and ferocity of the new Nazi attack against the Russians in the Kharkov sector indicate that Hitler finally is settling down in earnest to the bloody business of trying to crack the Red line in this gateway to the golden Caucasus.

The master gangster's previous assault in this zone more than a fortnight ago apparently was to improve his positions in preparation for a major offensive. Just how much he achieved isn't yet clear, but he did force the Russians back in places. This fresh drive, now in its fourth day, may be the real thing.

Judging from reports the battle thus far has in effect been a triumph for Red Marshal Timoshenko's fighting devils. The Germans have dented the Soviet line in the Donets basin, but appear to have done so at a terrific cost.

So long as the Bolshevists can prevent a break-through they are making long strides towards victory even though they remain on the defensive. This is so because Hitler is now suffering damage which he no longer can repair. He already has under arms about all the physically fit men he can call, without bringing out the very young or those beyond their prime. Further—and this is important, he has passed the peak of his war production and cannot increase his output. He is facing the down grade.

Down on the Crimea sanguinary fighting continues as the Nazis press their siege of the great Red naval base of Sevastopol. The position of Sevastopol is critical.

Over on the Libyan desert Nazi Field Marshal Rommel's mechanized forces have been able to sweep fifty miles or more into Egypt owing to British withdrawals. Axis troops have penetrated to the neighborhood of Sidi Barani. Rome claims this coastal post has been captured. This takes the invaders into Egypt as far as the Italians reached way back in 1940.

The British fought a rearguard action as they withdrew to more suitable positions. One would expect them to begin their real stand at Matruh on the coast. This is about 90 miles east of Sidi Barani. Matruh was head of the railroad to the great naval base of Alexandria until the line recently was extended into Libya by the British.

The new British withdrawal thus far is strategic and was expected in view of the circumstances of the defeat in Libya.

STATE SURPLUS TOSSED BACK INTO CAMPAIGN

Ferguson Resurrects Issue, Calls For 'Civilian March' on Columbus.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — The state surplus issue, which many thought had died two months ago, was resurrected from its political grave today.

State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, one of five candidates for the Democratic nomination for governor, dragged forth the corpse of the state surplus question, dressed it in war-time colors and plopped it down before the Republican administration.

He urged citizens from Ohio's financially-pressed cities—Dayton, Columbus, Akron, Youngstown, Lorain, Elyria, Delphos and "a great many others"—to band together in a huge civilian army to march on the state capital and demand state funds for "the essential, human protective services."

"It is high time that John Bricker assume a real leadership in civilian defense by seeing that Ohio cities are given ample funds to properly protect their citizens in all cases of emergency such as police and fire protection," Ferguson declared.

"When in time of war, our principal cities start reducing the size of their protection forces the problem has become too serious."

Republicans had believed hopefully that the surplus problem, in its civilian defense dress, was buried in April when Bricker allocated $2,000,000 in excess poor relief funds to Ohio cities for local civilian defense needs.

Ferguson accused Bricker of "taking away" money from municipalities during the past three years. He asked the governor to "immediately call a special session of the legislature" to allocate cities and counties "their proportionate shares of taxpayers money that has been taken away from them. . . ."

Ferguson charged Bricker with accumulating "a frozen balance in the state treasury of approximately $35,000,000" at the expense of cities such as Dayton and Columbus which now plan to curtail their protection forces to meet operating costs.

Commenting upon the defeat of extra tax levies in Dayton and Columbus, Ferguson said city councils should follow the dictates of the majority of voters because "they meant what they said when they wanted no new taxes."

Owner of Frequently-Robbed Station Fires By Mistake.

MALVERN—(INS)—The body of Mrs. Mildred Slentz, 45, of New Cumberland, W. Va., will be returned to her home, Sheriff John G. Kempthorne reported today, after she was accidentally shot to death by a gasoline filling station owner.

Mrs. Slentz and a companion, Pearl Kurish, 45, of Minerva, O., were returning from an induction party for Mrs. Slentz' brother, Sherl Champelain.

PRICE APPEAL STIRS COMMENT

Farm Bureau Puzzled at Act of Ohio Secretary on Agricultural Bill.

WASHINGTON—The American Farm Bureau federation said today it could "hardly understand" Murray Lincoln of Columbus, O., executive secretary of the Ohio Farm Bureau federation, splitting with the national organization over the pending agriculture department apropriation bill.

Lincoln, with labor, religious and other farm leaders, signed an appeal to President Roosevelt urging that food prices be kept down by the sale of government-owned feed at below parity prices.

"We could hardly understand Mr. Lincoln signing the letter because it lacks a policy which he and the Ohio Farm Bureau helped make," Edward A. O'Neal, Farm Bureau president, said. "But that's his right if he wants to do it.

"The Farm Bureau is a democracy and we don't plan to do anything about it except reply to the charges."

The appeal circulated by the National Farmers union, charged that "certain corporate and speculative interests" had persuaded the house to reduce appropriations for the Farm Security administration and that attacks on the FSA came from farm interests "committed to the high-price-through-scarcity concept."

O'Neal said the National Farmers union did not represent "shirt-tail farmers" and added that the group did not have enough farmers "in the whole outfit to wad a shotgun."

SENATORS QUESTIONING ARMY'S 42 BILLION DOLLAR SUPPLY BILL

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — An examination into the immediate need of a record-breaking $42,820,000,000 army appropriation was reported underway by a senate committee today as Senator Truman (D.-Mo.) announced he would seek to cut down any expenditures that did not appear to be fully justified at this time.

In a move regarded in some quarters as the first serious congressional questioning of huge military appropriations, Truman told reporters he and other members of an appropriation sub-committee were interested in determining the actual need of making available all of the amount in the house-approved bill — the largest cash outlay ever proposed before the legislative body.

"I want the army to have every cent that it needs," the Missouri senator said, "but we are going to examine into every phase of this thing and if they are building up a big back-log of appropriations that won't be used for months or even years, I am going to move to cut some of them down."

Voicing a similar viewpoint, Senator Taft (R.-Ohio) said he wondered why it was necessary to roll up the $205,000,000,000 in war appropriations that congress will have authorized since July 1, 1940, if it passes the bill, when the actual outlay for the new fiscal year beginning July 1 is not expected to exceed $60.-000,000,000.

Conceding that a strong effort might be made in committee to whittle down the measure, Chairman Thomas (D.-Okla.) said he had insisted that Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, appear before the group personally for a general justification of the appropriations.

The committee called Lieut. Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the air corps, for testimony today.

GETS ORDERS

Red Cross Here Told to Map Campaign For 1943.

Richland county chapter of the Red Cross was instructed today by the national organization to proceed at once with plans for the first combined annual Roll Call and war fund campaign scheduled for the entire month of March in 1943.

The purpose of the combined drive is to raise all funds required by the national organization and local chapters for one year's activities barring any new major disaster. Should such an emergency arise the organization will take such steps as deemed necesary.

Miss Lenore Van Gundia, Richland executive secretary, said that the county chapter had also been notified to estimate the amount of its own expenses for the period of one year and submit the total to the national organization for approval. This year $45,492 was collected by the war fund campaign and $20,297 by the Roll Call.

FILES SUIT ON AD SERVICE BILL

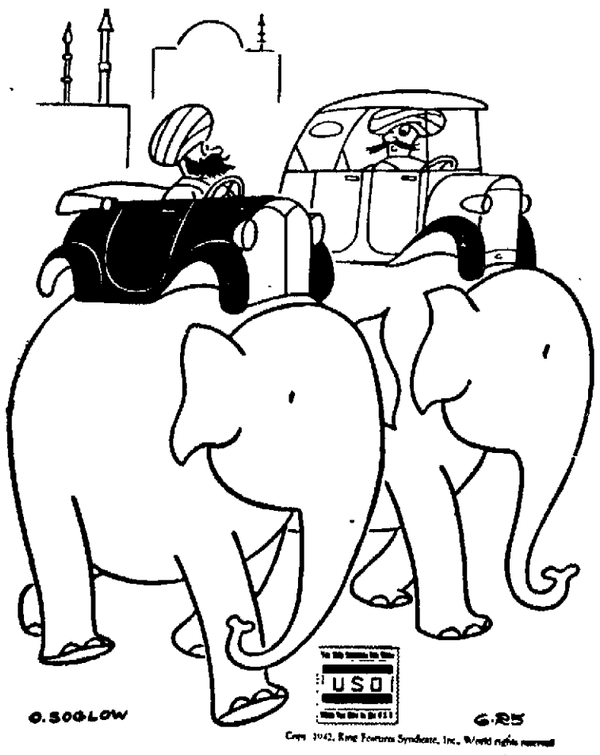
Company Claims $698 Due from Richland, Inc.

Richland, Inc., operators of Station WMAN, was named defendant today in a civil suit filed in municipal court for the payment of $698 59 which a Cincinnati firm claims is owed for advertising services.

Plaintiff in the case is Frederic W. Ziv, Inc., advertising firm, which states the money is due for services given WMAN from May 1, 1941 through April 1, 1942. The Cincinnati company also asks that six per cent interest be paid on the claim.

The case was filed by Homer G. Clark, Mansfield attorney, representing the advertising firm.

Laff-a-Day



"I hear there's a rubber shortage in America!"

A promise of ample sugar and unlimited tire purchases might appear to be the ideal campaign pledge, but it failed to work for a youthful candidate for "governor" at the recent Boys' State session in Columbus, according to Attorney John Catlett who was a counselor at the youth meeting. One boy had 1,000 campaign cards printed, promising plenty of sugar and tires, but the voters turned him down, accusing him of being unpatriotic, Catlett said. Youths, including a number from Richland county, elected officials and conducted their own state government at the Boys' State session.

The Mansfield delegation to the Columbus state convention of the Daughters of Union Veterans which closed sessions yesterday along with the Grand Army of the Republic, had a part in installation ceremonies for new officers last night. Mrs. Bertha Droz and Mrs. Della Cochran assisted in the rites, Mrs. Droz, past national president, in installing the new state president, Mrs. Anna Edwards of Columbus, and Mrs. Cochran in installing the state inner guard.

The women of a certain church society are still laughing over the unexpected help they had in singing the national anthem while at a meeting in one of their homes the other day. The singers were all standing, in a circle for the anthem and just when they reached the high notes they were startled by a long doleful sound emanating from another room. Upon glancing around they discovered the family's pet cocker spaniel standing on his hind legs howling mournfully. Now they are wondering if the canine was cooperating or merely protesting their version of the song.

FUND GROWING

U. S. O. Contributions Total $11,246 to Date.

Contributions from four more industries and a neighboring village raised the Richland county U.S.O. war fund to $11,246 today.

Receipts from last night's performance of Ethyl Battin's dance presentation, "Toyland Fantasy," and the first scrap rubber matinee held at the Madison theater this morning added additional receipts to the fund.

Everything from rubber nipples for baby bottles to rubber tires, raincoats and galoshes were brought to the matinee by youngsters today and the collection was turned over to Walter L. Beckley, manager of the Cities Service Oil company.

Reports from additional industries show that the Tappan Stove company contributed $175; Gorman-Rupp Manufacturing company, $163.45; Hughes-Keenan company, $65.50 and the Balyeat Mattress company, $35 The village of Butler gave $77.65.

HOUSE GROUP TENTATIVELY APPROVES BILL

Steep Increase in Levies on Corporations, Individuals, Luxuries Planned.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Taxes estimated to raise $5.924,000,000 from corporations, individuals, and steeply-increased levies on such common luxuries as cigarets were tentatively recommended to congress today by the house ways and means committee.

All decisions made, the committee turned the complex measure over to drafting clerks but reserves the right to inspect it once more before sending to the house for a week's debate beginning probably July 13.

Just a fraction over two-thirds of the $8,700,000,000 which Secretary Morgenthau said was "the least" that congress should provide, the new taxes would offset only a small part of the vast war expenditures voted since Pearl Harbor and still would leave the treasury the task of borrowing at least $39,000,000,000 in the fiscal year that begins July 1.

The committee's bill was completed last night after more than three and one-half months of consideration. It was conceded that by the time it is approved by the senate and probably adopted finally by a joint senate-house conference committee, the effect of proposed excise taxes would be lost for most of this year.

President Roosevelt recently spoke of a need to expedite action on the legislation because the loss of new revenue to the treasury was mounting daily.

The committee built its measure around a $5.000,000,000 in increases to be paid starting next year by corporations and individual income taxpayers.

About $2,291,000,000 of that total would come from corporation excess profits rates which have been raised from the current 60 per cent maximum to a flat 94 per cent rate, and from business normal and surtaxes which have been boosted from 31 to 40 per cent.

From individuals, the committee proposed to take another $2,-730,000,000 in a manner which would double the March 15 tax bills of the low and middle income groups.

The members agreed first, to raise the normal tax rate from the present 4 to 6 per cent. Then they boosted the minimum surtax rate, applicable to the first $2,000 of net income from 6 to 12 per cent.

In addition, the committee voted to lower the personal exemption of a single person from $750 to $500 and of married couples from $1,500 to $1,200, but retained the present $400 credit for each dependent.

Riot Squad Quells Paper Tossing at Cleveland Meeting

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Women demonstrators hurled wadded newspapers and magazines at city councilmen last night as the legislators discussed a motion commending Mayor Frank J. Lausche for barring Gerald L. K. Smith, chairman of "The Committee of 1,000,000," from speaking in Public hall.

A riot call brought a score of policemen who escorted from council chambers nearly 100 women identified as members of the United Mothers of America. The women booed mention of President Roosevelt and cheered Smith, who appeared unexpectedly at the session.

Most of the barrage was aimed at Councilman Joseph Krisek, who introduced the motion, which was tabled.

Smith, a former lieutenant in the share-the-wealth movement of the late Sen. Huey P. Long of Louisiana, describes his "Committee of 1,000,000" as a "crusading and patriotic movement of the people" to balk the "international plot" for world revolution.

He established headquarters for his organization in Detroit three years ago.

The recently wedded Huber McCuen, Mansfield athlete who is one of the chiefs in charge of physical education of the naval aviation cadets at Notre Dame university, was being quizzed by one of his charges not so many days ago in this fashion.

"How do you like married life by now?"

"I like it just fine," replied Chief McCuen. "I wouldn't be surprised if marriage develops into a very popular institution."

"Yeah," cracked the Irish cadet, "but who wants to live in an institution all his life?"

* * *

Besides building bodies for navigation, McCuen is getting in a bit of athletic competition himself these days.

He's a member of the Notre Dame Naval Aviation golf team, and reports that the Chain o' Lakes course, where the National Intercollegiate tourney is now being held, is one of the finest golf layouts he's seen.

Mac was to have been in a movie with his golf team not long ago, but the movie wasn't taken.

A military secret emanating from a cumulus congestion in the atmosphere cancelled the colossal production.

Mansfield Provident Loan girls have made themselves a reputation far and wide over the state of Ohio for their sportsmanship. (Or is it sportswomanship? These little niceties elude me.)

Part of this reputation springs from their long custom of romping across the diamond after each game and congratulating their opponents on the swell game they played, win, lose or whatnot.

And this practice they kept up even in the midst of their recent losing streak.

* * *

So it was something of a slap in the face for them the other evening when they break their losing streak, and run across the diamond to tell the Elyria Frank's Bakeries what a nice bunch of gals they are, and the Elyrians wouldn't even speak.

"That's the last time," quoth the righteously indignant Scrammy Schuster, "that we ever dip the duke to those dolls. The VERY LAST TIME!"

* * *

Oh, I don't know. A habit, they tell me, is hard to break. Even a good habit.

* * *

Realizing their need for batting practice, the Providents are looking around for a male twirler, who may have retired from actual mound work, but who still has something left in the flipper.

"What we need is a batting practice pitcher," they chorus.

This used to be a very familiar chant of the bewildered Cleveland Indians during the Vitt-Peckinpaugh era. But where the Indians wanted a pitcher they could hit, "like the Yankees have," the Providents want one who could give them real practice.

"I'd like to swing a few times against that Aid Geiger," says Tip Tipul, "but I don't suppose that'd do any good either. We'd never face that kind of pitching in our league."

Passeau, Walters Ride Again

Veterans Make Bid For National Mound Honors.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

THOSE two hardy perennials, Claude Passeau and William (Lucky Bucky) Walters, are bidding strongly for the pitching leadership of the National league again.

Passeau pitched a four-hitter for the Chicago Cubs yesterday to beat the Philadelphia Phils, 3-1, and attain his 11th victory, the most games any pitcher in the major leagues has won. He has accounted for exactly one-third of all the victories the second division Bruins have scored this season.

* * *

Walters, like Passeau, hasn't had much help from his Cincinnati teammates, yet last night he scored his eighth success against five setbacks by holding the New York Giants to six hits over ten innings. The Reds won 4-3.

* * *

The Reds' triumph coincided with a double defeat for the St. Louis Cardinals to close the gap between second and third place to a single game.

The Redbirds were beaten 6-2 and 3-1 at Boston by the Braves yesterday as Jim Tobin and Rookie Willard Donovan turned in two nice pitching jobs. Tobin was tapped for 11 hits and Donovan allowed only five.

In the American league the New York Yankees captured their second straight decision over the St. Louis Browns, 6-4. The champions, outhit 15-12, made up for this deficiency with four double plays, running their total to 92 for 64 games.

Broadway Charley Wagner came up with his second 1-0 victory in a row as the Boston Red Sox stopped the Detroit Tigers on his three-hit hurling.

* * *

Lefty Al Milnar organized a five-hit 9-0 shutout of the Philadelphia athletics for the Cleveland Indians. Milnar hit a home run himself along with Les Fleming's eighth circuit clout.

John Humphries shut out the Washington Senators, 6-0, for the Chicago White Sox.

DEFENDING CHAMP STILL IN RUNNING

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — (AP) — Sixteen hopefuls tee off today in quest of the National Intercollegiate Golf championship and the field is wide open.

Only one favorite—Earl Stewart, Louisiana State's defending titlist—remained in the running after yesterday's hectic firing in which the field was cut from 64 players with most of the so-called boys-to-beat being beaten. Today's 36-hole tour will reduce the field to four.

Seniors Open Golf Tourney

Stranahan Seeks To Win Second Crown.

COLUMBUS —(INS)— With an anticipated tee-entry list of about 30 linksters, the Ohio Seniors golf tournament which teed off this morning at Scioto Country club in Columbus, was expected to compare favorably in size with last year's record breaking turnout of 112.

* * *

Ace golfers from all over the state who have reached their 50th milestone along life's fairways comprised the entry list of 82 that had filed pre-tourney entrance for the fourth annual event.

* * *

Bob Stranahan of Toledo Inverness was out to break the precedent of a champion not repeating, and although he was on the "favorite" list, the field is a star-studded one and chances were that Stranahan would go the way of the two previous champions—in the also-ran column.

Raleigh Lee, Columbus veteran, and Joe Wells of East Liverpool were included in the king's row seeking two tournament titles. Lee won the first tourney in 1939 and Wells succeeded him in 1940.

With approximately $1,000 in war bonds and stamps awaiting in the prize coffers for the winning contestants, all friendships ceased momentarily through today's 18 holes of golf and will also be absent tomorrow through the concluding 18.

* * *

The field is divided into five divisions, depending on age with 50-54 being categoried in "A" and so on with five years separating each class. All over 70 fall in the "E" class.

* * *

The entry list will remain open today until it is too dark to negotiate 18 holes and the only restriction is that the entrant must be affiliated with a member club of Ohio Golf association.

Jameson, Kirby Lead In Tourney

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—Favorites Betty Jameson, San Antonio, Tex., and Dorothy Kirby, Atlanta, Ga., led the advance of stars today into the quarter-final round of the Women's Western Open Golf tournament.

* * *

Both of the southern stars played par golf yesterday in winning their matches decisively. Miss Jameson eliminated Mary Agnes Wall, Menominee, Mich., 6 and 5. Miss Kirby defeated Dorothy Ellis, Indianapolis, Ind., 7 and 5.

* * *

Virginia Ingram, Chicago, scored a major upset by defeating Mrs. Russell Mann, Omaha, 4 and 3. Mrs. Mann was one of the heavy pre-tournament favorites.

Marjorie Row, Michigan State college co-ed from Detroit, defeated Mrs. Frank Mayer, Chicago, 3 and 2. Miss Row had eliminated the medalist, Eleanor Dudley in the first round. Miss Row meets Miss Ingram today.

AL MILNAR

Every time Cleveland baseball fans begin wondering if Al Milnar is all washed up, the big southpaw turns in a game that makes their eyes pop. He did it yesterday with a five-hit 9 to 0 victory over the Philadelphia, not allowing a hit in the last six innings, and contributed a long home run to the attack.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—Fats Henry, who was only an all-America lineman 23 years ago and more recently athletic director at Washington and Jefferson college, will attend the eastern Pennsylvania interscholastic football coaches' clinic as one of the students. . . . He figures he needs a "refresher" course since he'll coach the football team this season. . . . This brings up the point that a lot of old timers will be back in harness since the younger fellows are going into the armed forces. Maybe next fall's games will feature the flying wedge and the old-fashioned "T" formation. . . . Middleweight Champ Tony Zale (he's Boatswain's Mate Tony Zaleski now) has been ordered to sea duty and won't be available for the proposed navy relief fight show in Chicago. . . . Al Schacht has offered to appear for free at the International league all-star game at Buffalo, July 8.

RETREADING THEIR PATH.

Back in 1934 the federal government turned over several obsolete World war ambulances to the Iowa State College Athletic council. . . . After some remodeling, which included new wheels and tires, they were used as trucks around the athletic plant. . . . Last week, eight years after the gift was made, Athletic Director George Veenker located eight of the old-style tires in a storehouse and donated the 320 pounds of rubber to the salvage drive.

He will train for six weeks at Miami Beach and then report at the air corps intelligence school at Harrisburg, Pa., for another six-week course.

During 15 years with the United Press Kirksey became one of the nation's outstanding baseball writers.

Hogan Leads Girard Field

Golf's Big Timers Join Blazin' Ben.

GIRARD — (AP) — Blazin' Ben Hogan of Texas, the current firebrand of the golfing tours, has returned to the scene of the Mahoning valley open for a try at bettering the third place he won last year.

* * *

Against Hogan, winner of the recent Hale America tourney, is arrayed a field of more than 100 pros and amateurs, including Clayton Heafner of Durham, N. C., who will start tomorrow defending the title he won over the Mahoning valley course last year when the $5,000 event was initiated.

* * *

The Hale America winner scored a 271, which was 17 under par, to garner the Chicago event, and what he or some of his competitors may do to the local layout has the clubhouse fans talking of a possible world's record for major league golf.

The tournament par is 34-34--68, making 272 the measure for the 72 holes. The world record is 264, set by Craig Wood in winning the 1940 Metropolita open at Forest Hills club, Bloomfield, N. J. Heafner's winning tally here last year was put together to the accompaniment of thunderstorms and virtual floods. Hogan's score here was 278, one shot behind second-place Byron Nelson.

Par has taken a trimming already in the practice rounds.

Dick Metz, Oak Park, Ill., reeled off 30-32--62 and Joe Kirkwood, Abingdon, Pa., had 30-34--64. Long-driving Jimmy Thomson turned in a 33-31--64. Hogan tried out the course but did not turn in a score, having played several extra shots on each hole.

The first 18 holes will be played tomorrow, another 18 on Saturday and the final on Sunday.

First place carries with it $1,200, second $750 and third $550, with 12 other awards ranging downward to $80.

Upsets Recorded In Net Tourney

NEW ORLEANS — (U.P.) — Ted Schroeder of Stanford, top-seeded favorite, continued play in the quarter-finals of the 58th intercollegiate tennis championships but a pair of upsets sidelined a champion and another favorite today.

Seymour Greenberg of Northwestern university, won the national clay courts title at St. Louis last Monday, was eliminated yesterday by Emery Neale of Stanford, 0-6, 8-6,6-2.

In another upset, Elston Wyatt of the naval academy defeated Walter Driver of the University of Texas, 6-1, 6-4. Driver defeated Dan Canale of Notre Dame in an upset Tuesday.

Schroeder won from Bob Odman of the University of Washington, 8-6, 6-1.

Barnes Stays In Race for Title

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — Bruce Barnes, Robert Harmon and John Nogrady, ranked fifth, sixth and seventh in that order, seek third-round berths today in the 16th national profesional tennis tournament at the West Side Tennis club, Forest Hills.

All four top-seeded players, Don Budge of Oakland, Calif., Bobby Riggs of Chicago, Frankie Kovacs of Oakland and Wayne Sabin of Reno, Nev., have reached the third round.

CHARLESTON BOOSTS LEAD TO 3 GAMES

ZANESVILLE —(AP)— Charleston has a three-game edge in the Mid-Atlantic league today, after winning a double-header from last place Zanesville, 4 to 1 and 4 to 3.

LOUIS DECLARES HE ASKS NO FAVORS

FORT RILEY—(U.P.)—Corp. Joe Louis Barrow, heavyweight boxing champion, asumed his duties at Ft. Riley, cavalry post today after his transfer from Camp Upton, N. Y., where he received basic military training.

Louis did not know whether he would remain a foot soldier in the infantry or be asigned to mounted duty. He asked no favors.

"I want to do my duty like any other soldier," he said.

Milnar Turns In Shutout

Contributes Home Run to 9-0 Win Over A's.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — The Indians' portside pitching Als—Smith and Milnar—refuse to be dropped into the category of fading veterans.

Smith, who brought his standing up to five-all by taking his last three starts—including last Saturday's one-hitter against the Yankees—works again today in the finale of the three-game series with the Athletics.

* * *

Milnar turned in his best job of the year yesterday as the Indians walloped the A's for the second straight day, 9 to 0, holding the visitors hitless in the last six innings after giving up five hits.

* * *

He thereby cemented his claim to a place in the list of regular starters, notching his fourth triumph against an equal number of defeats. By taking its sixth victory in eight games of the current home campaign, the Tribe pulled ahead of fourth place Detroit by a two-game margin.

Milnar drove a homer over the screen in right center field with one down in the fifth inning as one of the features of Cleveland's 15-hit assault on three Philadelphia pitchers.

Les Fleming also got a four-bagger, his eighth of the season.

Birds' Winning Streak Ended

Last Place Mud Hens Take Two From Brews.

(By Associated Press)

Last place Toledo kept on doing things to Milwaukee last night.

The Brewers dropped a twin bill to the tail-enders, and Kansas City got going again on the chore of protecting its none-too-wide lead in the American association race.

* * *

Kansas City defeated Columbus, 7-3, and snapped the Red Birds' winning streak at seven.

* * *

At Toledo, Johnny Marcum pitched a two-hit game against Milwaukee in the abbreviated opener, and the Mud Hens won 1-0. Fritz Ostermueller, yielding nine hits, got a 10-4 decision for the home team in the nightcap.

Indianapolis won its fifth straight, a 6-1 victory over Minneapolis.

St. Paul and Louisville were idle.

Seattle Asks All Non-Workers To Move From City

SEATTLE, Wash.—(GNS)—In a plea that would have shocked the chamber of commerce of any city a few months ago, Seattle authorities have asked residents who do not work here to "please go somewhere else to live—until the war is over."

The city defense commission, the county commissioners and the county welfare board joined in asking that non-essential persons leave to provide housing for workers in shipbuilding and airplane plants.

Already crowded, Seattle is faced with the problem of where to put 25,000 more workers who will be employed by the city's war industries this summer.

The authorities called these persons non-essential and urged them specifically to leave:

All unemployables;

Old age pensioners and retired persons with private incomes;

Persons not qualified to work in war industries because of age or physical handicaps;

Recent high school graduates who plan to enter college this fall—authorities hope they may find work in areas not crowded with war industries.

NEW LONDONERS WIN DEGREES

NEW LONDON—Accompanied by their advisor, Miss Jane Simons, home economics instructor at New London high school, six members of the New London Future Homemakers association attended the F. H. A. jubilee at Ashland Wednesday.

Other regional groups present at the jubilee were from North Fairfield, South Amherst, Big Prairie, Lucas, Ashland, Monroeville, and Wellington. The six girls from here were Mary Leasure, Kathryn Hartman, Gertrude Haver, Edna Fannin, Mary Lou Thomas, and Dorothy Hannum.

Gertrude Raver, president of the local F. H. A. chapter, received the honors of the Fourth degree of F. H. A., while three New London members, Mary Leasure, Kathryn Hartman, and Gertrude Raver, assisted Monroeville and North Fairfield in exemplifying the third degree.

IN HOSPITAL

NEW LONDON—Mrs. Joseph Hrabanek, daughter of T. J. Hayes of Galion, divisional superintendent for the Big Four Railroad, was removed from a train here Wednesday afternoon and taken to the New London hospital.

The patient was en route from her home in Galion to a Cleveland hospital. Her condition became so grave however that it was deemed inadvisable to make the entire trip.

Bertha, daughter of Friedrich Alfred Krupp, gave her name to the "Big Bertha" cannon of World War 1.

WAR'S KIND TO THREE TYPES OF GLASSMAKERS

Foreign Competition Gone, Tableware, Jars Take Place of Tin Cans.

(By Wide World)

NEW YORK — The war has been kind to three of the four types of glassmakers. They are up to their ears in work and the raw materials they need are plentiful.

They have a main hope: That the business the war has brought them will continue after peace.

Blessed by the war the makers of fiber, tablewear and container glass.

Fiber glass makers easily turned from peace to war production. Tablewear makers now have no foreign competition. The makers of glass containers are watching their product take the place of many rival tin cans.

But a fourth type, flatglass makers, saw a big chunk of their market disappear because they made glass for buildings and new automobiles and when war came the former was curtailed and the latter stopped.

A spokesman for one of the largest flatglass makers, explaining how his firm is seeking new outlets, cheerfully said:

"Now we are promoting mirrors and window-conditioning."

If everybody in the United States," he went on, put in window-conditioning it would mean the saving of coal and fuel oil equal to a trainload 2,500 miles long.

Unlike other industries cramped or shut down for lack of raw materials needed more directly for war purposes, glass has not suffered for lack of its ingredients: sand, lime, soda ash, and the oxides which give color.

The fiberglass makers swung over from the peacetime manufacture of glass thread and insulation for homes, refrigerators and stoves to war production of insulation for ships, aircraft and windings for wires and cables.

Tin had long been the rival of glass for first place on the shelves of the nation's groceries. When the Japanese shut off the East Indian tin supply, glass began to move up to the head of the class.

There are glass containers now for more than 400 brands of coffee and hundreds of other items from fruits to vegetables.

Glass containers, the makers hope, will retain their place on the nation's store shelves after the war. They are going to try to give tin a battle for first place.

The tablewear manufacturers have their field to themselves with foreign competition about out of the picture.

HOME HEALTH DEFENSE IS ESSENTIAL TO NATIONAL DEFENSE

The CLOROX way is the easy, effective way to Greater Home Sanitation!

ADDED family health protection is today especially important to the welfare of our nation. It can be readily provided in every home by making "danger zones" sanitary the easy, effective Clorox way. Clorox is ultra-refined, free from caustic... it disinfects, deodorizes, removes stains in routine cleansing in kitchen, bathroom, laundry. The Clorox type of sanitation is recognized by scientists as being most effective. For health-protective cleanliness in your home, simply follow directions on the Clorox label.

WHY TAKE CHANCES! "When it's CLOROX-CLEAN it's hygienically clean!"

For pride and protection make kitchens spick-and-span, sanitary! Kitchens especially require hygienic cleanliness for greater family health security. Use Clorox regularly to make refrigerators, drainboards, sinks, glassware, dishcloths, dish towels, garbage receptacles fresh-smelling, hygienically clean.

Clorox-cleanliness in bathrooms . . . a "first aid" to health! Clorox disinfects, deodorizes, removes stains from washbasins, bathtubs, toilet bowls, floors, woodwork and other household "danger zones"... leaves them sanitary, fresh-smelling. WITH REGARD TO A CARD OF THANKS

Very often a Card of Thanks in The News-Journal meets a need which can hardly be solved in any other way. Not only is it a gracious expression of gratitude to those who have sent floral tributes, but also courteously acknowledges the service and kindness of the many to whom a personal note of thanks cannot well be mailed, or whose names or addresses are not known.
A "Card of Thanks" can now be arranged by telephone: Dial 4251-6, ask for Miss Lane. She will be glad to render service and advice you need.

STOCK MARKET TRENDS FOUND BIT UNCERTAIN

Big City Bank Clearings Are Reported Higher Than Those of 1941.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Stock market trends remained somewhat spotty in today's transactions.

Up fractions were Northern Pacific, Du Pont, Chrysler and Johns-Manville. Small minus signs were posted for Union Carbide, General Motors, and Montgomery Ward.

Share analysts found a little comfort in the Dun & Bradstreet survey disclosing bank clearings in the country's principal cities for the past week were 13.7 per cent above the comparable period last year. The total, though, was a trifle under that of the week ending June 7.

Helpful also was the compliation of the Engineering News-Record estimating heavy building construction for the week concluded Tuesday exceeded the 1941 like period by 11 per cent.

By Mr. Mihalick:

An Ordinance determining to proceed with the improvement of Lida Street from Raymond Avenue to Longview Avenue by grading the street to the established grade and graveling the roadway with some suitable material, constructing the necessary curbing, gutters and storm drainage, etc., and authorizing the issuance and sale of bonds to pay for said improvement.

Be It Ordained by the Council of the City of Mansfield, State of Ohio, three-fourths of all the members elected thereto concurring:

Sec. 1. That it is hereby determined to proceed with the improvement of Lida Street from Raymond Avenue to Longview Avenue by grading the street to the established grade and graveling the roadway with some suitable material, constructing the necessary curbing, gutters and storm drainage, etc., in accordance with Resolution No. 42-75, passed May 5, 1942, and in accordance with the plans, specifications, estimates and profiles of said improvement heretofore approved and now on file in the office of the Department of Public Service of said city.

Sec. 2. That all claims for damages resulting therefrom shall be judicially inquired into after completion of the proposed improvement.

Sec. 3. That the whole cost of said improvement, less the cost of intersections and one-fiftieth of the total cost shall be assessed by the foot front upon the lots and lands bounding and abutting upon the proposed improvement, and the remaining portion of the cost of said proposed improvement shall be paid by the City of Mansfield, Ohio.

That to provide a fund for the payment of the portion of the cost and expense for which special assessments are authorized to be levied for the improvement of Lida Street as aforesaid, the Mayor and Auditor be and they are hereby authorized to issue, advertise for sale and sell according to law fourteen hundred ($1,400.00) Dollars of Street Assessment Bonds of the City of Mansfield, Ohio, in denominations of from fifty to one thousand dollars each, payable in from one to three years, and bearing interest at the same rate as borne by the bonds to be issued therefor, payable semi-annually.

That to provide a fund to pay that portion of the cost of said improvement which has to be paid by the City of Mansfield, Ohio, the cost, to-wit: seventeen hundred dollars ($1,700.00) to be taken from the General Fund.

And the proceeds thereof shall be applied to the payment of the cost and expense of said improvement as aforesaid, and to no other purpose whatsoever.

An annual levy shall be made during the term of said bonds in an amount sufficient to pay the interest on the same and to provide a sinking fund for their redemption as they mature.

Sec. 4. That the following lots and lands shall be assessed for said improvement as above determined. All the lots and lands bounding and abutting upon said improvement on Lida Street between Raymond Avenue and Longview Avenue.

Sec. 5. That upon the sale of said bonds the proceeds thereof, together with the moneys received, if any, from the cash payments of assessments, shall be placed in the City Treasury; the accrued interest and premiums shall be placed to the credit of the sinking fund, and the remaining portion of the purchase price of said bonds shall be placed to the credit of Lida Street improvement fund and disbursed upon proper vouchers in payment of the cost and expense of the improvement aforesaid, and all moneys coming into said Lida street improvement fund are hereby appropriated for the purpose of said disbursements.

Sec. 6. That the Director of Public Service be and he is hereby authorized and directed to advertise for bids and to make and execute a contract for said improvement with the lowest and best bidder, according to law.

TELL OF DUTCH HARBOR RAID

Eye-Witnesses Reveal Japs Caught Civilians By Surprise.

, warehouses were set afire, and casualties were not great.)

Mayor John W. Fletcher of Unalaska (Dutch Harbor is in Unalaska bay) said aplication was made for 35 death certificates after the day's bombing.

Service men aboard the ship were tight-liped about what damage was done at the Dutch Harbor base, but several said "the damage was light—considering."

"Considering what?" interviewers pressed a ruddy-faced army corporal.

"Considering that no matter how long you've been warned and have been expecting a raid, there's bound to be some surprise when they finally do come over in force," he replied. "No matter how much stuff you toss at them, some of them are bound to get through."

Declining to identify himself, he acted as spokesman for half a dozen walking wounded. The wounded men were included among the passenger list of 64 persons from Dutch Harbor and 34 from nearby Cold Bay. Seventeen women and 18 children evacuees were included.

"It was hot stuff," continued the corporal. "We were credited with knocking down 11 of their planes. Personally, I didn't see any planes fall. How many the navy got, I don't know.

"But, you know, when you're doing a job you don't have time to watch around at what the other fellow is doing."

"I spent seven months in France as an artilleryman in the last war," commented C. W. Flack, 45, a ship's porter from San Francisco, "but I saw more action in two days at Dutch Harbor than in all of those seven months."

Unalaska's Mayor Fletcher, on his way to confer with Indian bureau authorities about the evacuation of natives, described the scene thus:

"There was a hell of an attack on the harbor on this ship we came down on. It occurred before the pasengers were aboard. The men at the guns put up a curtain of fire that was deadly. The dive bombers couldn't get in very close.

"The ship had docked in Dutch Harbor only the night before the first dawn bombing raid. She was taken out into the harbor after the bombing started. She was rushed out from the docks where she could have maneuvering space.

"The antiaircraft fire that went up from the ship was really something to behold.

"We had heard that a sizable task force was in the Pacific off the Aleutians, btu the recollection I have most vividly of the bombing was the surprising suddenness with which it came.

"I was awakened by the antiaircraft firing.

"It was an ideal day from the Japanese standpoint. The planes came over the island head out of broken clouds, and could not be heard until they were in close.

"I don't think they expected to run into the hot fire from antiaircraft guns that greeted them."

Fletcher estimated the raid lasted 30 to 40 minutes. The bombs "just seemed to float down slowly."

"They talk about these Japs having bad eyesight," he continued. "That's a lot of bunk. Their eyesight is plenty good and they didn't lack any courage up there. I saw one getting a blaze of antiaircraft fire on his nose, but he kept right on coming."

One of the ship's crew members, who grabebd a rifle and blazed away at the bombers, was Arthur S. Myers, 27, of Chicago. He reported, with confirmation by a superior, that he saw one of the Jap divers plunge into the bay after it swept away from the barrage from ack-ack guns — and Myer's rifle.

Lamar Chandler, a ship's waiter from San Francisco, said he was ready to give the ship up for lost when a dive bomber came relentlessly toward it in the face of devastating A-A fire.

"That's one of those suicide divers, I said to myself," he related. "Every gun seemed to be on him, but he made no effort to turn. Finally he turned up. My knees were weak. If I had a rock, I think I could have hit him with it, he was so close."

The seamen thought the antiaircraft fire from the ship kept the dive bombers from getting into position overhead to release their bombs.

As for the funners' thoughts in the heat of the battle, with an explosive cargo under them, a pair of West Virginia seamen — Harry C. Taylor of Littleton and R. M. Cooper of Bluefield—summed it up:

"We didn't worry and we can't tell you much about what was going on. Were too busy at one job. We didn't have time to worry."
